Senate joins House, overrides veto

By JEROME WATSON
Chicago Sun-Times

WASHINGTON — The Republican Senate on Friday joined the Democratic House in overriding President Reagan's veto of a $14.2 supplemental funding bill, giving Reagan his first major legislative defeat and a potentially important political setback.

Reagan reacted by saying he was "terribly, terribly hurt." He pledged "a lot more vetoing" of so-called "budget-busting" bills.

Brushing aside last-minute personal appeals from the president, who has used similar tactics to great effect in the past, the Senate voted 60 to 30 to provide the exact two-thirds margin needed for a successful override. The House voted 301 to 117 Thursday to override the veto.

Significantly, 81 House Republicans and 21 Senate Republicans joined Democrats in making the overrides a solidly bipartisan affair. Ten senators, seven of them Republicans, missed the vote.

McClure misses override vote — A7

Of the 11 incumbent Republicans seeking re-election, seven voted against the president, and two were absent.

Reagan lost despite telephone appeals to 17 senators and convincing several campaigning senators to return to Washington to vote for sustaining the veto.

Democratic National Chairman Charles T. Manatt called the override the result of "the increasingly negative public reaction to the (Budget Director David) Stockman-style of meat-axe budget cuts . . . That this key vote occurred immediately after a long congressional recess and the exposure of House and Senate members to an unhappy electorate was no coincidence."

Reagan aides maintained the override will have no lasting impact on the president's leadership stature or his relations with Congress.

Reagan derived political benefit among conservatives from the act of the veto, and some Republicans feel the override will make it harder for Democrats to stir up those, including some elderly, who will benefit from the supplemental appropriation.

Although top White House aides advocated the veto, substantially for political reasons, administration officials in the State and Defense Departments, as well as some Republican congressional leaders, had urged Reagan to sign the measure.

Reagan, who Thursday denounced the House override by declaring, "The big spenders won!" was more subdued Friday when he said in Ogden, Utah, "I'm disappointed, but it doesn't change my mind any about what I'm going to do. I intend to veto budget-busting bills, and I will continue to do it."

The president had sought an even larger supplemental appropriation, but with more of it devoted to military spending.

Errors caused first setback

Analysis

WASHINGTON — White House officials, licking their wounds after a rare legislative defeat, privately admit that two major blunders led to President Reagan's first setback on a spending issue in Congress.

While the President campaigned in the West, saying he intends to continue vetoing "budget-busting" measures, aides in Washington conceded Friday that mistakes by the administration contributed heavily to the override of Reagan's spending bill veto.

First, defense funds should not have been included in the $14.2 billion measure. This issue, which sparked the most controversy, could have been delayed until the 1983 fiscal year, now only three weeks away, they said.

Also, a grave error was committed in failing to give House Republicans notice before the bill was passed last month that the President intended to veto it.

Since 130 of the Republicans voted for the measure, a large number were placed by the president in the embarrassing spot of having to switch their votes if the veto were to be sustained. With the election less than two months away, 81 refused to switch, especially since a number of popular domestic programs were at stake.

The mood at the White House was bleak after Thursday's House defeat, which paved the way for Friday's setback in the Senate.

"There's no two ways about it, we were afraid it could make a lot of difference," one White House official said. Members of Congress, officials felt, might now think they could load up appropriations bills with spending measures and risk a veto.

However, officials now hope that since the veto override stemmed primarily from the mistakes made by the White House on this bill alone, there will be no fallout on other fiscal measures.

Congress is about to consider the much more important continuing resolution to keep the government operating after the 1983 fiscal year begins Oct. 1. Last November, the president vetoed the same comprehensive bill for the 1982 fiscal year, briefly closing down the government. This veto was sustained, forcing Congress to compromise with Reagan.

The "goof" cited by the White House on defense spending stemmed from the 1981 fiscal year, when the Pentagon insisted that $3.6 billion in added funds were needed to offset the impact of inflation.

Marines leave Lebanon, mission accomplished

By VINCENT J. SCHODOLSKI
United Press International

Eight-hundred U.S. Marines who helped oversee the evacuation of Palestinian guerrillas from Israeli-encircled west Beirut concluded their 17-day mission without firing a shot Friday and departed singing "The Marine Hymn."

The Italian contingent of the peacekeeping force is due to begin pulling out Saturday and French troops, who arrived in Beirut Aug. 19, are expected to end their mission Tuesday.

In the northern Lebanese town of Tripoli, a stronghold for Palestinian guerrillas who were not trapped in Beirut, there were reports of fighting between Lebanese and Palestinians but no word of any casualties.

Despite the pullout of the Marines and the gradual restoration of order in Beirut, the prospects for peace in the Middle East remained elusive. Israel flatly rejected an 8-point Arab peace plan and the United States said the elements were "at variance" with President Reagan's proposals.

"It is an additional plan for the liquidation of Israel, for its annihilation in one or two stages," Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir said. "This is a declaration of war on Israel. It has no weight and no value."

Secretary of State George Shultz said the Arab plan could be a "genuine breakthrough" if it recognized Israel's right to exist, but Israeli leaders denied the proposal gave that recognition.

The Arab plan was reported to implicitly recognize Israel for the first time by calling on the U.N. Security Council to guarantee the peace of "all" countries in the region, including an independent Palestinian state.

But Israeli officials said implicit recognition means nothing.

The U.S. Marines, their "mission accomplished," returned to ships of the 6th Fleet in a smooth 1-hour, 45-minute operation.

"The mission was obviously not a difficult one," said Col. James Mead, commander of the 6th Fleet's Marine Amphibious Unit that landed in Beirut Aug. 25.

"It is time to rebuild and bring peace to this beautiful country," Mead said watching the Marines board helicopters as an Israeli warplane made a low pass overhead.

President Reagan telephoned Mead after he arrived aboard the USS Guam and thanked the Marines for doing "a splendid job," the White House said.

"You and your men have met the test and our prayers have been answered," Reagan told him.

Three companies of Marines, who oversaw the evacuation along with French and Italian troops, were withdrawn from Beirut port — the only part of Lebanon they saw.

Two Marine companies, Golf Company and Echo Company, were airlifted from the port by helicopter to the USS Guam waiting just offshore. As they marched toward the waiting helicopters, they sang the "Marine Hymn."

Reagan praises values behind Mormon welfare system

Reagan greets a young fan at Ogden

By PETER GILLINS
United Press International

HOOPER, Utah — The rain poured, the cars were backed up for miles and the loudspeaker screeched. But the president spoke and the cold, wet crowd cheered when he denounced abortion and praised the Mormon welfare system.

President Ronald Reagan made a triumphant visit to the small, Mormon farming town of Hooper Friday to campaign for Sen. Orrin Hatch, and other Utah Republicans.

The speech followed a tour of a Mormon Church Cannery in Ogden where he was briefed by Elder Gordon B. Hinckley of the Mormon First Presidency on the church's private welfare system. Reagan praised the church for taking care of its needy members with a program based on voluntary labor that had "no costly bureaucratic overhead."

"Today we are returning to the principles that I saw this morning in that cannery ... the principles of reward of honest toil and living within our means and paying heed to the spiritual values that have always been the inner strength of America."

A crowd estimated at 15,000 people converged on the 10-acre city park which had been decorated like a western movie set, complete with an old stagecoach, chuck wagon, sagebrush and bleached cattle bones.

People trying to reach the park caused a traffic jam that backed up for 15 miles on Interstate 15 and many never made it into the park because they could not be processed through airport-type Secret Service security devices before the President arrived. At one point the line stretched for a half a mile from the park.

The line for the soggy picnic began forming at 7 a.m. and many people stood in a steady drizzle interrupted by an occasional downpour for up to five hours to hear Reagan.

"The rain could have waited for another day," said Allen [illegible], one of the early arrivers. "But I don't mind. It's important to show support for the President."

The rainstorm suddenly halted as the President's motorcade approached the park. Reagan ignored a slight drizzle and spoke to the crowd from the back of a haywagon.

On the way into the arena, he was made an honorary member of the Weber County Sheriff's Mounted Posse and he promptly told the audience "with this badge they gave me, maybe I can stop some of the highway robbery that's going on in Washington."

The president expressed his bitter disappointment over the Senate vote cancelling his veto of a $14.2 billion supplemental appropriations bill and he vowed to continue vetoing spending bills he thinks cost too much.

"I want to tell you something," he said. "They had better practice at that (overriding vetos) because they are going to get a chance to do that everytime they send an appropriation down that's over the budget."

Reagan was interrupted several times with applause — particularly when he denounced abortion and said unborn fetuses should be presumed to be human beings and given full rights. He was also cheered when said he supported prayer in public schools.

"God never should have been expelled from school," he said.

Reagan also stressed that inflation has been cut from 12.4 percent at the beginning of his term to 5.4 percent.

"For a family of four with a $15,000 income, that's a $1,000 savings just from the reduction of inflation," he said.

Today's briefing

Bess Truman's condition worse

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Bess Truman's temperature, pulse and respiration were elevated Friday but hospital officials said the former first lady's bleeding ulcer was "under control."

"The bleeding is under control today," Dr. Wallace Graham said in a statement. "Her blood pressure is stable. However, her temperature, pulse and respiration continue to be elevated."

The ulcer in Mrs. Truman's small intestine was still bleeding, said Tom Peck, a spokesman for Research Medical Center. Peck stressed that while the bleeding had been controlled it had not been stopped.

The bleeding had been stopped over the weekend.

"Dr. Graham concluded that his 97-year-old patient's vital signs are constantly monitored because her condition can fluctuate," Peck said.

Pam West, a nursing supervisor, late Thursday said, "She could go either way. She could get better or worse."

Officers deport illegal aliens

WEISER (UPI) — U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service officials say they have apprehended and deported within the past two weeks about 50 illegal aliens who were working in farms in the Weiser area.

Authorities said 32 illegal aliens were detained Aug. 31 and held in the Washington and Ada county jails before they were taken by bus to the California-Mexico border for deportation.

He said many illegal aliens were picked up individually, or in groups during raids of Weiser-area labor camps.

Weiser Police Chief Dale Irons, whose agency helped federal agents round up the Mexican nationals, said more illegal aliens have arrived in the area at this time of year than usual.

Gas Company to soften blow

BOISE (UPI) — Intermountain Gas Co. said Friday it would seek a smaller revenue increase than originally requested in its rate-hike application to the Idaho Public Utilities Commission in April.

The natural gas utility, which first asked for a $10.1 million, 7.4 percent boost, amended the application to request an $8.7 million, 6.4 percent raise.

The company said it was able to reduce its request because its wholesale supplier, Northwest Pipeline Corp., agreed to accept a smaller payment from the Boise-based utility to secure the low amount of gas it now requires.

When it submitted the original request, Intermountain said its revenue was dangerously low because it had lost important industrial customers, and because commercial and residential users had reduced consumption.

Under the amended increase, the average residential gas consumer would pay $4.50 more per month instead of an additional $5 under the original application.

The company also Friday asked the PUC to pass through to its ratepayers a decrease it expects to receive Oct. 1 in its wholesale gas price.

Officers accused of brutality

BOISE (UPI) — Two Boise police officers were accused of brutality and civil-rights violations Friday in a U.S. District Court suit stemming from the arrest of two men last year.

George R. Elliott, Bill Elliott and Blaine E. Stewart demanded more than $1.5 million in damages from patrolmen Rick Weber and Mike Townsend and Police Chief John Church.

The suit said the two officers rushed into a house occupied by the three men and arrested a fourth man who was sleeping on a couch in the North Beach Street residence.

The plaintiffs claimed the officers ransacked the home and garage and a car owned by one of the men without permission, then waited for Bill Elliott to return.

Bill Elliott claimed in the suit that he arrived four hours later that day — Oct. 2, 1981, and was choked, driven to the ground, handcuffed and taken to the Ada County Jail without being told why he was arrested.

Lutherans elect woman officer

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The American Lutheran Church has elected its first woman to a full-time national office.

The 1,000 ALC convention delegates Friday elected Kathryn E. Baerwald, Minneapolis, Minn., to the office of general secretary.

"I will do my best to live up to the responsibility you have placed in me," Mrs. Baerwald said after a standing ovation from the delegates.

"I think it's certainly a momentous occasion — in my life particularly," she said outside the convention. "I think that it is important for all offices of the church."

UFOs land near Turkish city

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Two unidentified objects fell out of sky Thursday and crashed in the central Anatolian plateau with an explosion that could be heard miles away, the newspaper Hurriyet said Friday.

No casualties were reported.

Official sources said the two round-shaped objects, weighing about 22 pounds, exploded on impact some 1.5 miles from Ulugac village after being seen flying over the town of Nigde.

Hurriyet said villagers ran out of their houses in panic following the explosion.

It said the objects dug one-foot holes in the ground and the explosion burned vegetation around the holes.

The regional military commander, Capt. Ertekin Iscan, said the objects were extracted from the ground and sent to Ankara for examinations, Hurriyet said.

"They were mysterious, sphere-like objects, the size of a small gas container and had holes open through them.

"They were empty and might have fallen from a plane," Iscan said.

Nigde, a central Turkish town, has long been the scene for Unidentified Flying Object watchers since the first alleged sightings last year by about 300,000 people.

Rainfall amounts were generally light in southern Idaho but in central and northern Idaho amounts ranged from .13 inch at McCall to 1.5 inches at the Fenn Ranger Station near Grangeville. Most amounts were around .40 inch.

Under partly cloudy skies Friday afternoon, temperatures were in the middle 50s to low 60s at most places although a few mountain spots reported readings in the 40s. The state's warmest report was 77 degrees at Strevell and the coolest morning low was 32 at Deadwood.

In Twin Falls, the pollen count was 101 per cubic meter of air.

Conditions in the Magic Valley for hay cutting and drying of bean and seed crops will be fair to poor through Wednesday. Irrigation demands will fall well below normal for that period.

Pan evaporation is forecast at .10 inch today and Sunday. Spraying conditions will be poor through today with winds of 15 to 25 miles an hour.

The extendeed forecast calls for dry, unseasonably cool conditions Monday through Wednesday. Highs will be in the 70s with lows in the 40s and 50s.

Reagan backers fly free

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration ordered special Air Force flights to bring two Republicans back from western states to vote to sustain President Reagan's veto.

Democrats estimated the cost at $11,200.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., who led the successful fight to override the veto Friday, flew the "red-eye" from the West Coast to reach the Senate in time to vote.

The Air Force flights of Sens. Paul Laxalt of Nevada and Orrin Hatch of Utah were two examples of efforts by the administration and Senate Republican leaders to rescue Reagan's veto.

Senate Republican leader Howard Baker also said Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., canceled a speaking engagement in Portland, Ore., to fly to Washington in time to cast a vote for Reagan.

"It is bad enough that Hatch voted against Utah's senior citizens, disadvantaged students, handicapped and farmers, but to fly in a government jet, costing over $11,200 when he could have flown commercially for less than $400 is inexcusable," said Hatch's democratic challenger, Ted Wilson.

"It has just added insult to injury."

Hatch's campaign manager, Mike Leavitt, defended the senator's use of the government plane. He said the jet first picked up Nevada Sen. Paul Laxalt who could not have caught a commerical flight to Washington in time for the vote.

Veto

Asked whether he had lost his touch with Congress, the president said, "No, I don't think so. I wasn't aiming for a scoreless game. I'll just be content to win . . . Any time there is an attempt to bust the budget, yes, I will veto."

Reagan said many senators voted against him because they thought the bill "did not in the aggregate actually bust the budget."

He said he was not angry at the desertion of such Republicans as Budget Committee Chairman Pete V. Domenici (R-N.M.). "No," he said, "I'm not angry. I'm just terribly, terribly hurt." The president said he wished the deserting Republicans had supported him, but "everyone makes mistakes."

Reagan had sought to block the override by making last-minute concessions that would have preserved a jobs program and accepted some military spending cuts, but this strategy failed as an election-conscious Congress balked at cutting social programs

Blunders

These funds were included by the administration last February in its 1982 supplemental bill proposal. But since the Administration feared Congress would balk at approving this kind of inflation adjustment, the money was said to be for "urgent programs" involving aircraft and ships and general military operations and maintanance.

Even though the aim was disguised, the Senate and House Appropriations Committees refused to accept anywhere near the full amount and cut it to $480 million, throwing out $2.1 billion.

This, in turn, opened the way for the committees to beef up domestic spending, including additional funds for the aged, students and the infirm that the President opposed. Because of the defense cuts, the added funds still left the bill below the overall budget ceiling, so a telling argument could be made by Democrats and a large number of Republicans that it was not a "budget buster" as contended by the president.

But by this switch of funds, the bill's priorities had been changed in favor of social programs. The added funds for social programs included some money Congress had agreed to cut last November in reaching a compromise with the president.

Both the House and Senate upheld these priorities in overriding the veto, but White House officials contend that the issue would have been avoided if the defense funds had not been included in the supplemental spending bill in the first place. Without the defense cutback, there would not have been leeway for the added social spending.

The bill itself came to the House floor in the hectic days before action on the $98.3 billion tax-cut when President Reagan was devoting his full addition to lobbying on that controversial issue. As a result, House Republicans were not told that Reagan was so opposed to much of the supplemental bill that he would veto it.

And this week, there was little time for lobbying the House to sustain the veto, since the override vote came only two days after Congress returned from its Labor Day recess.

The president devoted his lobbying campaign almost exclusively to the Senate, but by then it was too late.

Officials concede that the president probably vetoed the bill in part to curry favor with conservative Republicans with whom he had broken on the tax bill. In this sense, the veto was regarded as largely symbolic, without much relation to his efforts to hold down government spending. Its enactment now will have little impact on the budget deficit estimated to be more than $140 billion this fiscal year.

Both Secretary of State George Shultz and Defense Secretary Casper Weinberger had urged the President to sign the bill into law, sources said. Shultz was concerned about the possible setback for the Caribbean Basic initiative. The bill included $350 million for this purpose.

Weinberger was concerned that a veto, unless overridden, would raise doubt whether Congress would pass any defense appropriations bill for the 1982 fiscal year.

But the president, after talking from his California home Aug. 26 with two top White House aides, James A. Baker 3d and Edwin Meese 3d, decided to veto the bill, apparently in part at least on political grounds.

His less-than-total lobbying effort in the House this week to sustain the veto led to widespread speculation on Capitol Hill that he was not especially opposed to an override. But a White House official said the president "cared like hell" to win this fight. This concern was shown, he said, by the President's arrangements to fly Senators back to Washington in a futile effort to sustain the veto.

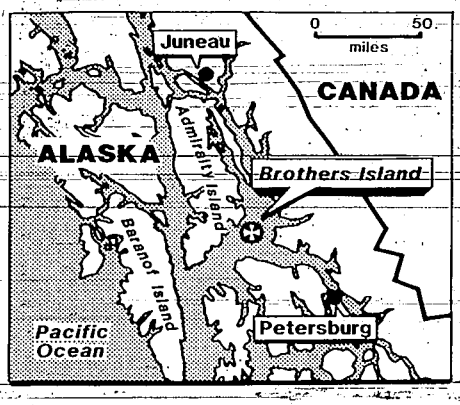
Cruise ship runs aground off Alaska coast



Falling life raft causes one fatality, two injuries

JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) — The Alaskan Majestic Explorer cruise ship ran aground in Alaska's Inland Passage Friday, hurling passengers across its decks and forcing 100 passengers and crew to take to lifeboats. One woman died and two men were injured.

The passengers and crew — with the exception of the captain and first mate, who stayed aboard the $5 million listing ship — were rescued and taken to Juneau.

The 152-foot liner struck a shoal amidships on the east side of Brothers Island in Stephens Channel, 60 miles south of Juneau, at 10:05 a.m. MDT.

The ship's officers hoped to refloat the vessel at high tide.

One passenger, identified as Francis Lawson, 72, of Bellevue, Wash., died, and her husband and another man were injured when a rubber liferaft inside its metal container fell from the four-deck ship onto their raft.

Harry Lawson, 71, was in critical condition with hypothermia and multiple injuries, and James Greenough, 38, of Sitka, Alaska, was in stable condition with back injuries. They were flown by Coast Guard helicopter to Petersburg and then transferred to a hospital in Juneau.

"They were hit by the cannister that holds the life raft," said passenger Ruth Vanderwater of Sedonia, Ariz. "It got loose and hit them."

"Very sudden and violent" was how one passenger described the impact as the ship ran aground. The passenger, who refused to be identified, said people aboard the ship were thrown into the port side of the vessel.

A fishing boat failed in an attempt to pull the ship off the rocks. A receding tide caused the ship to keel, and the 80 passengers and 20 of 22 crewmembers took to lifeboats.

Mrs. Vanderwater said the Majestic's crew carried out the evacuation as if it were a drill.

"They told us all to meet in the lounge. There was no emergency. The ship wasn't doing anything, so they said 'Well, this is a good opportunity. Let's try to putting on our liferafts,'" she said.

"Then the ship was listing, and they said it was due to the wind. Then we got into the liferafts. We just went and did that."

The passengers and crew in lifeboats were quickly rescued from calm 1 to 2 foot seas by the fishing boats Commander and Blackfish.

Nearby, the sailboat Marianna, manned by a doctor and several nurses, came to the aid of the injured until they could be flown out by helicopter. The crew of the Marianne said the evacuees were calm and in good spirits.

A float plane and a hydrofoil took the crew and passengers to Juneau.

The Majestic Explorer had been chartered by Special Expeditions of New York for a 10-day tour "geared toward natural history" with classes by botanists and geologists held onboard, a company spokeswoman said.

The tour cost between $2,000 and $3,000 per person.

"This is definitely not a luxury cruise, not the dress-for-dinner type at all," the spokeswoman said.

Peter Reynolds, vice president and general manager of Exploration Cruise Lines of Seattle, the ship's owners, said there were no punctures or visible damage to its hull.

The liner was on the sixth day of the cruise from its home port of Ketchikan, Alaska, to Sitka, Alaska. It ran aground while sightseeing along the Inland Passage, which wends between islands off the coast of the Alaska-Panhandle and the Canadian province of British Columbia.

White House linked to palimony suit

By AURELIO ROJAS
United Press International

LOS ANGELES — An aide to President Reagan met last month in the White House with the attorney for the former model who has filed a $10 million palimony suit against multi-millionaire Alfred Bloomingdale, the lawyer said Friday.

Bloomingdale, an heir to the department store chain and a close friend of President Reagan, died last month of cancer at 66, but Vicki Morgan, 29, is pressing her suit against his estate and his wife.

Celebrity attorney Marvin Mitchelson said he was asked to come to the White House in September by A. Morgan Mason, a special assistant to the president for political affairs.

"He contacted me and I went to the White House to talk about the case," Mitchelson said. "I really can't say more than that."

Mason, who recruited entertainers to perform at Reagan fundraisers during the 1980 presidential campaign, is the son of actors James and Pamela Mason.

Mitchelson, who handled the landmark Marvin vs. Marvin palimony case in 1978, first gained public attention in 1964 when he handled Mrs. Mason's divorce suit and won a $2 million settlement.

The attorney refused to comment on the substance of his conversation with Mason, but said, "Obviously this (the case) is very sensitive during an election year."

Mitchelson also revealed that Miss Morgan is negotiating book and television deals to reveal the details of her 12-year affair with Bloomingdale.

"There is definite interest in these two projects — lots of interest," Mitchelson said. "People are beating a path to her door."

However, Mitchelson conceded the projects — which include a proposed television miniseries — may have to wait until Miss Morgan's suit is settled, which could take years.

In sworn court documents, Miss Morgan claims she began her relationship with Bloomingdale, a co-founder of the Diners Club, when she was 17 and served for a dozen years as his "traveling companion, confidante and business partner."

The former model said she also provided therapy to help Bloomingdale "overcome his Marquis de Sade complex."

Their affair, she said, was uncovered more than 10 years ago by Nancy Reagan who saw them lunching together and told her close friend, Betsy Bloomingdale, a well-known socialite who was married to the department store heir for 35 years.

The Bloomingdales were close friends of the Reagans and were frequent visitors at the White House.

Asked if the president and his wife would be depicted in the book and television series, Mitchelson said, "I can't be specific because we're in the development stage, but a project like this would involve all pertinent aspects of the story."

Bloomingdale left his entire estate — estimated at about $50 million — to his wife and a trust fund. Miss Morgan was not mentioned in the will, which was dated July 25 — 17 days after she filed her palimony suit.

In the suit, Miss Morgan charges Bloomingdale with breach of contract and alleges he promised to support her for life. She claims Bloomingdale made monthly $18,000 support payment to her since October 1970.

Mrs. Bloomingdale forced her husband to end the affair because, "she found out I was at his house, visiting him when he was ill," Miss Morgan said.

The widow asked a judge earlier this week to dimiss the suit because her husband's affair with Miss Morgan was based entirely on sex and their agreements were "contracts for prostitution."

Pilot from crash makes another call

KALISPELL, Mont. (UPI) — Another mysterious phone call has been received from the pilot of a plane which may have crashed in a lake in northwestern Montana, a Canadian official said Friday.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police Supt. Scott Gardiner said Friday missing pilot Gary Ambrozuk, 19, of Burnaby, British Columbia, made another collect phone call Thursday night to a friend in Vancouver. Ambrozuk has previously telephoned twice before to the friend following the reported crash of the aircraft on Aug. 22.

The latest call is being traced, Gardiner said.

Ambrozuk again told his friend that the plane crashed in Little Bitterroot Lake and his girlfriend, Diane Babcock, 18, died in the accident, Gardiner said.

Authorities traced one of the initial phone calls to a bus depot in New York City where he apparently called shortly after his disappearance.

"As a result of the new call, we have taken steps to introduce our most sophisticated electronic equipment in the search in the lake," Gardiner said.

State Department protests prod sale

By JIM ANDERSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Over strong objections from the State Department, the Reagan administration has approved the sale of 500 electric shock batons for crowd control to South Korea, administration officials said Friday.

Commerce Department spokeswoman Bonnie Whyte said the license for $12,000 worth of "riot control" equipment was issued Wednesday.

The batons, similar to cattle prods, give a high-voltage but non-lethal shock to anybody touched by them. There have been allegations that they have been used not only for crowd control but also for torture and interrogation purposes.

Martial law in South Korea was lifted in January 1981 but regulations prohibiting political activity or dissent remain.

The most recent State Department report on human rights in South Korea says "there were numoerous allegations of torture" including mistreatment of two newspaper editors jailed after printing articles critical of the South Korean leadership.

According to administration officials, the license was issued after the State Department issued a strong protest to Secretary of Commerce Malcolm Baldrige, who responded that the issuing of export licenses was the business of his department.

The administration officials said that Secretary of State George Shultz argued that the sale, even though it was nominally a commerical deal, involved an important principle of U.S. foreign policy and that such issues should not be dealt with on a purely commerical basis.

Despite the letter from Shultz to Baldrige, the license was issued by Baldrige on Wednesday.

Baldrige was out of Washington and unavailable for comment. His spokesman, B. Jay Cooper, said he was unfamiliar with the issue and could not comment.

The administration officials said that if the items have not been shipped, the State Department will continue to fight the sale. But Mrs. Whyte said, "It is pretty much done."

The administration official said, "The opposition to the sale was a State Department position from top to bottom; it wasn't just the Human Rights bureau. The issue is who has the authority to run U.S. foreign policy and how foreign policy is going to be carried out."

The official predicted that the issue of approval of such sensitive sales is going to be decided by the White House in the wake of the total disagreement between Shultz and Baldridge.

Fire claims 22nd victim

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A woman died Friday of third-degree burns suffered in the disastrous Sunset Boulevard apartment house fire, raising to 22 the death toll in the second deadliest blaze in city history.

The latest victim was Josefina de la Torre, 30, who died at Brotman Memorial Hospital. Her 6-year-old daughter, Ella, died Tuesday of burns at the same hospital, and six other members of the de la Torre family perished in the flames.

All the victims — including 11 children — were members of just four families. Most of the 200 residents of the apartment house on Sunset Boulevard near downtown came from the same small Mexican village, El Salitre.

Eighteen people died early Saturday when they were caught in the intense flames that flashed through two corridors of the aging apartment house.

Beep, shown here in happier days, sports an artificial beak

Murderer snuffs Beep the Goose

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — Beep the Goose, the bird that became an national celebrity when doctors gave her an artificial beak, fell victim to "barnyard murder" and left behind only a pile of feathers, her owner said Friday.

Larry Day, Beep's owner and administrator of the Grand Avenue Pet Hospital where Beep received her artificial beak, said he waited a month to break the news of her Aug. 9 death "because we were so heartbroken."

"It's a case of barnyard murder," Day said. "Horace the Honker was also killed in the attack."

Day said he believes the same coyote who bit off Beep's beak may have returned to finish the job.

"But it could have been a raccoon or a weasel, we just don't know."

Because all that remained of Beep "was a pile of feathers," Day said there was hope the goose was still alive.

"Horace's body was there, but not Beep's. We searched and searched, but we had to finally accept that Beep was dead. It was very hard. Beep was just like part of the family.

"I searched for blocks looking for her nose. I knew they couldn't digest her nose. But there was nothing."

Beep first came to national attention in May when she received a beak transplanted by veterinarians from a dead goose. Her body rejected the transplant, so a medical team grafted a custom-made orange acrylic beak onto the goose, fastening it with tiny, 14-karat gold screws.

"There were so many tears when we finally realized Beep had to be dead. It was especially hard with Horace gone.

There is a happy ending, though.

Day said the same day Beep disappeared, "Knott's Berry Farm called and said they had Beep there. We rushed right down there, but it wasn't Beep. It was a male, but the upper beak was broken off in exactly the same way."

The gander, also a gray goose, apparently suffered its beak injury early in life and has learned to adapt its eating and drinking habits accordingly, Day said.

There has been discussion of another beak transplant, but no final decision has been made.

"Now here I am with another noseless goose," said Day. "We don't know what to call him, so the kids just call him Mr. Beep."

Wholesale price increase shows slowing of inflation

By DENIS G. GULINO
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Prices paid by American business climbed a moderate 0.6 percent in August, the government reported Friday, and fuel, food and auto price trends seemed to promise even less wholesale inflation in the future.

If the slight monthly growth in the August Producer Price Index for finished goods were spread out to an annual rate, it would be 7.5 percent, compared to 7.1 percent in July.

The new report was another in a nearly uninterrupted series of monthly figures showing inflation for business has weakened from last year when wholesale prices climbed 9.2 percent.

In Utah, where President Reagan was wrapping up a two-day western trip, deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said, "We find the news encouraging — it indicates we are continuing to moderate prices."

The Labor Department index, before seasonal adjustment, was 282.4 in August. That is equivalent to a national average cost to businesses of $2,824 for the government's sample of wholesale goods and services that cost $1,000 in 1967.

Since January, the actual annual rate for 1982 has been only 3.7 percent, the department said.

In the past year the monthly rate topped 1 percent only once, in June. For three of those months — February, March and May — prices actually walked back down the price staircase.

Closer examination showed a reversal of trends from July to August, with the world oil oversupply of oil putting the brakes on gasoline prices but food prices turning back to an increase.

Gasoline prices went up only 1.3 percent in August, after leaping 7.9 percent in July, the department said. This month gasoline prices appeared to have actually declined, analysts said.

Home heating oil prices declined for dealers in August and natural gas price increases slowed down, the department said.

Food prices were nearly motionless in August, climbing 0.1 percent. But that represented a big change compared to the 1.5 percent decline in July.

Auto prices went up 2.4 percent in August, as factories provided only weak incentives to dealers to lower prices.

The incentives grew in September and the auto prices figure, which provided about a tenth of the overall August increase, could combine with food and fuel deceleration in producing an exceptionally low inflation figure when the next report is published in October, a leading analyst said.

September's index "is certainly not going to be a bad number to have in place if you are a Republican running for Congress," said Georgia State University economist Donald Ratajczak.

Industrial raw materials declined after three months of increases, however, suggesting economic demand had still not benefited from any recovery, Ratajczak said. "It's a little discouraging. That's a recessionary kind of performance."

Cars seized to pay student loans

By United Press International

People who neglected to repay federal loans for college tuition may have their cars impounded or their wages garnished under a nationwide crackdown on deadbeats, U.S. attorneys said Friday.

But to escape the long arm of the federal law, they could move to Texas or Massachusetts — where state law in some cases prohibits confiscation of property to satisfy a debt.

Since Wednesday 17 automobiles in eastern Pennsylvania have been impounded — including Cadillacs, a Lincoln Continental and a Porsche — to satisfy the indebtedness of people who failed to repay college loans, Assistant U.S. Attorney Virginia Powel said from Philadelphia.

Ms. Powel estimated in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania alone — a 10-county area including Philadelphia and its suburbs — there are 600 people who have refused repeated requests to pay off their debts.

"We are planning to get to each and every case where no payment is received," she noted.

Steel tariffs predicted

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — U.S. Trade Representative Bill Brock predicted Friday the United States will impose tariffs on the imports of foreign steel.

He also said the rift with European allies over the Soviet gas pipeline will not wreck NATO.

Brock, in Charleston to attend a fundraiser for Senate candidate Cleve Benedict, said for some steel imports the price is being subsidized up to 26 percent by foreign governments.

Brock said the American government is moving toward imposing an equivalent tax to match that subsidy.

He said the tariff would salvage the jobs of 120,000 laid-off steel industry workers.

Storm close to hurricane force

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Tropical storm Chris gained strength and speed in the Gulf of Mexico just 130 miles off the Texas-Louisiana shore Friday and forecasters issued a hurricane watch for a stretch of the coast.

"At the current time, we're just in the process of putting up a hurricane watch for the area from Morgan City, La., west to Port O'Connor, Texas," said David Barnes, chief forecaster for the National Weather Service. "The storm continues to strengthen and is up around 50 knots now.

"I believe there's a chance that just before she comes ashore she will reach hurricane force winds."

Oil firms began evacuating or securing offshore rigs in the storm area. Chevron evacuated 25 men from a rig 5 miles off the Louisiana coast and Ocean Drilling and Exploration Co. Inc. halted operations on two of its drilling platforms.

"They're shutting down blowout preventers and pulling drill pipe just in case we have to leave the rig unattended for a time," said ODECO spokesman Al Spindler. "At this point it looks like they'll just ride it out unless it gets much worse."

However, Barnes said chances were good the storm would become the season's second hurricane.

"The storm is moving so slowly that there is a fair chance it will reach hurricane status," Barnes said.

Hurricane Alberto killed 23 people in Cuba in June and caused flooding on the barrier islands off the southwest Florida coast after losing much of its punch.

Reagan gets parking ticket

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — Police Chief Joe Ritchie said he will fire the prankster who issued a parking ticket to President Reagan's limousine Friday morning and forged the chief's signature on the citation.

It was not known whether the ticket ever reached the windshield of the presidential limo.

The ticket cited "Ronnie Reagan" for a 24-hour overtime parking violation. Reagan spent Thursday night at an Ogden hotel while in Utah stumping for Republican political candidates.

The traffic ticket, supposedly signed by Ritchie, erroneously listed the president's address as "2525 Pennsylvania Ave., Washington D.C." Another error was made on the date of birth: 72 it said instead of 71.

For occupation, it said "president," and the phone number was "unlisted."

Whoever prepared the ticket wrote that he was unable to obtain the driver's license number or Reagan's signature.

Phone blackout isolates Soviets from the world

MOSCOW (UPI) — Telephone service between Moscow and most of the world was severed for hours Friday because of a technical "malfunction" U.S. officials blamed on a Soviet effort to limit the nation's contacts with foreigners.

Any widespread disruption in Soviet communications always results in speculation that some major political changes are imminent, but there was no support for such concerns Friday.

However, Secretary of State George Shultz seemed more skeptical when asked about the cutoff. "I don't want to comment on it, but obviously something is bothering them," he said.

The blackout came a week after the Kremlin eliminated all incoming direct dial service and routed calls through a reduced staff of operators in a move some observers believed was aimed at tightening internal security.

A spokesman for American Telephone & Telegraph Long Lines in New Jersey said 16 of the company's 19 circuits to the Soviet Union first went out at 7:10 a.m. EDT. Calls to Leningrad, Kiev, Minsk and Tallin were still possible, however.

The 16 circuits were restored briefly at 2 p.m. for 32 minutes, went out again 32 minutes later, were restored at 3:45 p.m. and down again at 5:20 p.m, the spokesman said.

"We got a telex saying the Moscow switching machine (transferring calls from Moscow operators to individual parties) has been restored," the spokesman said.

At the State Department, officials said that they believed the Soviet story of a technical foulup.

"There may be something dramatic or mysterious going on also, but that was not the reason for the Soviets pulling the plug on the phones," one official said.

Canada's cabinet shuffled

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau announced a "little jewel of a shuffle" Friday within his Cabinet to try to win public support for his tough wage control program and regain lost popularity.

Five key ministries, including finance and foreign affairs, were involved in the second Cabinet reshuffle since Trudeau regained office in 1980. Trudeau has governed Canada for all but nine months since 1968.

"You'll be delighted with this little jewel of a shuffle I crafted," Trudeau said in announcing the shakeup.

Trudeau said the changes were the first in a planned two-stage realignment of his 35-member Cabinet to deal with pressing economic issues before Parliament reconvenes Oct. 27.

Canada's record 12.2 percent unemployment and a stubborn 10.8 percent inflation rate have left Trudeau's popularity sagging. Latest polls have his Liberal Party trailing the Conservatives by 13 points.

On a recent train trip, demonstrators pelted Trudeau's coach with eggs, tomatoes and other missiles, including rocks, to protest his economic policies.

Government trouble-shooter Marc Lalonde, who drew strong criticism from the United States for promoting Canadian ownership of the oil and gas industry, was named to the powerful finance ministry.

Lalonde, 53, one of Trudeau's most trusted confidantes, takes over the ministry at a time when Canada is using a tough restraint program to try to pull out of a recession.

The nation's labor organizations have already challenged the federal program to limit wages for government employees to 6 percent this year and 5 percent next year. The program puts a similar ceiling on price increases and calls for parallel action from the 10 provincial governments.

Allan MacEachen, 61, one of the most controversial finance ministers in Canada's post-war history, returned to the foreign affairs position he had held from August 1974 to September 1976.

Trudeau said MacEachen asked to be returned to his "great love" in external affairs. The deputy prime minister was under almost continual fire in the two years he was finance minister.

Jean Chretien, 48, who drew praise for his handling of the sometimes bitter negotiations between Canada's central government and the 10 provinces to bring in a new constitution in April, was appointed energy minister.

Mark MacGuigan, 51, a law professor regarded as one of the most learned members of the cabinet, succeeds Chretien as justice minister and attorney-general after a lackluster two years as external affairs minister.

Sen. Jacob Austin was named minister of state for social development. Austin, 50, who has been in the senate since August, 1975, served previously as deputy minister of energy, mines and resources between 1970 and 1974. He was also the principal secretary to Trudeau for a year.

What's what

The men in Napoleon's Imperial Guard were intensely loyal — ever true to the Emperor's will. It was they who were first described by a phrase now common everywhere in political groups: "The Old Guard."

Q. Where is it the law that prostitutes have to dye their hair yellow?

A. Nowhere now. That was the law of old Rome.

"Do what you can with what you have where you are," said Teddy Roosevelt, sagely.

HONKY TONKS

Q. You said "honky tonks" are so called in honor of a man named Matt Honk. Why?

A. Mr. Honk was a piano salesman around 1900. He called on western beer halls, pitching the notion that a piano therein would attract more customers. Those so furnished by him came to be known by the play on his name.

That British statesman Horace Walpole said, "The world is a comedy to those who think, a tragedy to those who feel." That's the thought for the day. You're only allowed one.

Insofar as I know, no public relations officer with the U.S. Marine Corps will admit the flat fact that numerous recruits in basic training are afflicted with onychocryptosis, bulli and neculated-tyloma. But no outrage, that. These medical disorders, translated in order, are ingrown toenails, blisters and corns.

PYGMIES

Q. How much do pygmies weigh at birth?

A. Average, 8.6 pounds. That's among the Ituri Forest pygmies in Central Africa.

Thirteen years six months out of the 18 years a bat ordinarily lives is spent in hibernation.

It is a matter of historical record that the workers who built ancient Rome's Circus Maximus more than 1,600 years ago wore hard hats.

Sen. McClure misses vote on veto of spending bill

BOISE (UPI) — One of Idaho's two Republican senators failed to vote Friday on an attempt to override President Reagan's veto of a supplemental spending bill, an attempt which would have gone down in defeat if a single additional lawmaker had supported the chief executive.

The override attempt, which passed the House 301-117 Thursday, gained approval of the upper chamber on a 60-30 vote — exactly the two thirds-majority required.

While Sen. Steve Symms voted in favor of the Reagan veto, Sen. James McClure did not cast any vote.

McClure rarely, if ever, pairs votes," his new secretary, Judy Neuenschwander, said Friday in a telephone conversation from Washington.

"He believes you're either present (in the Senate chamber), or you're not present."

Neuenschwander also said he has "no idea" how McClure would have voted. The senator was returning to Idaho Friday and could not be reached for comment.

Symms said he regrets the Senate's refusal to sustain the presidential veto. But he said the vote is "not a major defeat" for Reagan.

"There are too many ways people could rationalize their votes, and many of them are very, very good reasons," said Symms from Washington.

He also said the big battle facing Reagan will come later this year when the Senate tackles the question of cutting entitlement programs.

"In terms of this particular bill, in another month or so people will look back and see it was not as significant as some people were trying to make it appear," the junior senator said.

The bill would have authorized the spending of $14.4 billion in supplemental funds to pay government debts through Sept. 30. The Senate action, the first time the chamber has deserted the president on a money-bill veto, saw 21 of 47 Republicans vote to override.

Stickers connect groups

By STEVEN CHRISTENSEN
United Press International

BOISE (UPI) — Leaders of both groups say they are at a loss to explain why address labels on envelopes used to mail out bumper stickers critical of Democratic Gov. John Evans are identical to those containing news releases from the Idaho Freedom to Work Committee.

Committee representatives last week denied any involvement in a project by the newly incorporated Free Idaho to Replace Evans (FIRE) group to mail out bumper stickers accusing Evans of allowing national union leaders to force closure of the Bunker Hill mining company in Kellogg.

Labels on envelopes containing the stickers are identical in size, typeface, spacing — even address errors — to those used all summer by the committee, an organization trying to gain passage of a right-to-work law in the Gem State.

Committee officials said they make up their own address labels at their office on West Bannock in Boise, and cannot explain the similarity of those adhesive strips to the ones used by FIRE.

"The Freedom to Work Committee has nothing to do with those bumper stickers," Committee Director Peter Bratt said this week in a telephone conversation from Tacoma, Wash.

"I just can't explain it to you. I know we never authorized anything like that, but if an individual did it on their own time, that's their business," Bratt said.

A committee staff worker said labels prepared by his group have been handed out in recent weeks to two parties — the Young Republicans and a personal friend whom the employee declined to identify.

The worker, who asked that his name not be used, said he had no knowledge of anyone approaching the committee and asking if labels for mailing bumper stickers could be obtained.

Miss Idaho's swimsuit too much

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Lisa Eaton, representing Miss Idaho in the Miss America Pageant, has finally found a bathing suit modest enough for competition officials.

Miss Idaho and Miss Georgia Bobbie Eakes had both failed to pass modesty requirements during a preview screening. "They said my bathing suit exposed too much bust," said the 22-year-old Miss Eaton.

"I was too busy rehearsing for other events to look for a new suit, so I asked pageant hostesses to find one for me. I finally picked one at 1 a.m. today," Miss Idaho said Friday that the screening committee approved.

"When I first picked out my bathing suit, I thought it was modest. And it passed the standards in Idaho," said the Boise State University senior from Shelley, Idaho.

"All of the contestants had displayed their suits before the pageant screening committee when an announcement came over the speaker that they wanted to speak to me and to Miss Georgia."

"It was then that they said my suit didn't meet their modesty standards. I was very embarrassed and panic-stricken," she said. "I didn't know how I'd find another suit on such short notice."

Mitchell critical of public land sale plan

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — An Idaho state senator is critical of a Reagan administration plan to sell large tracts of public lands in the nation.

Democratic Sen. Mike Mitchell said Thursday the plan would reverse years of history in federal management of western public lands.

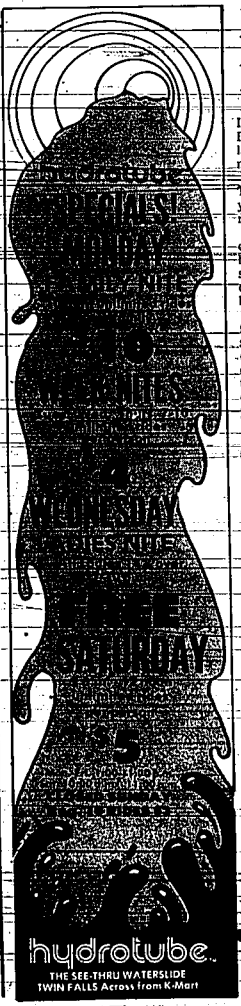
"I propose to you that the economic considerations, those of balancing the budget, are nothing more than a smokescreen," Mitchell said during a conference on public lands sponsored by Resources for the Future.

"We believe it is wrong for the federal government to abdicate its stewardship responsibilities," Mitchell said. "Some of the harshest critics of the proposal have charged that the administration would place our national heritage on the market to pay off our national debt."

Mitchell, a candidate for lieutenant governor in his state and a former member of the Bureau of Land Management's National Public Lands Advisory Committee, warned against trusting private corporations to manage lands in the public interest after purchasing them from the federal government.

Early last year, Reagan formed a committee to identify public lands that could be sold. Later, the administration set a revenue target of $17 billion which could be earned by public land sales during the next five years, Mitchell said.

The senator said he objected to setting a revenue target, then searching for salable land to fill the revenue quota because the procedure would violate essential principles established in the 1976 Federal Lands Policy and Management Act.



Couple dies in house fire

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — A predawn fire swept through a Mountain Home residence early Friday, killing an elderly couple, but sparing the victims' son and granddaughter.

Mountain Home Fire Chief Tom Hyler said Carl J. Otto, 70, and his 58-year-old wife, Emmie, were killed when flamed erupted at their home in the western part of town shortly after 3 a.m.

He said the couple's son, Randy, and granddaughter, Sarah, were awakened by the fire and managed to escape the burning home. They sustained minor injuries and were reported in good condition Friday at Elmore Memorial Hospital.

The chief said 24 firefighters and two pumper trucks were dispatched to the home, and had the fire under control within two hours.

A preliminary investigation indicates the blaze originated in the house's living room, but Hyler said its cause had not yet been determined.

He said the fire caused more than $35,000 damage.

Register of Merit show honors memory of late Filer cattleman

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

FILER — William J. Yoder was honored Friday at the Twin Falls County Fair in a way the late Filer cattleman would have appreciated — with a 21-ton salute.

The salute was the Register of Merit Hereford show, one of only 10 such shows in the country this year, which attracted more than 200 purebred Herefords from 17 states.

Yoder managed, or helped manage, the Hereford show at the fair almost every year from 1968 until his death from cancer nearly a year ago. This first show after his death was dedicated to him by the Idaho Hereford Breeders Association.

In the show ring, the contest belonged mainly to the large, as judge Tom Sellman from Nebraska exhibited his taste for the bigger animals in each age class of heifers and bulls.

"The most important thing is size in the frame and the ability to grow," he said, explaining how he judged the tons of beef he saw in the ring. After that, he looked for a desirable shape and proper muscling.

While judging one class of females, Sellman did not place the largest animals at the top. He explained his decision to the audience of about 200. "In this class, the big frame heifers are not the trimmest. That's why it caused me trouble."

But when it came time to pick a grand-champion heifer for the show, Sellman named one of the largest as his choice, SR Miss Advance 144, which is owned jointly by Cameo Herefords of New Mexico and Morgan and Marcotte Cattle Co. of Colorado.

"She's a powerful heifer. She probably won't be defeated this year," said Rolf Schumann, a Caldwell rancher who helped show her.

In the bull classes, a classic battle of the bulge was waged between two one-ton, 2-year-old bulls. The judge spent several minutes looking over the five entries in the class, but his eye kept coming back to two in particular.

He lined all the animals up in the order he thought he would place them. Then, he had the two top bulls walk around the ring again.

After that second look, he reversed the bulls in the top two positions, placing Mr. Incredible at the top of his class. The bull is owned by K and B Herefords, Lodoen Herefords and Bieber Herefords, all of South Dakota.

What did Bill Bennett of Connell, Wash., think as he saw the judge reverse the tentative placing and remove Bennett's Dutchman 0075 from first place?

He shook his head as he led the bull into the second spot in line, but minutes later he said, "After you've been doing this so long, you've just got to take what comes."

Dutchman had been named the grand-champion bull at a Register of Merit Hereford show in Washington just about a week before.

When it came time to choose the grand-champion bull for the show, neither Dutchman or Mr. Incredible was Sellman's pick, however. Instead, he tabbed a younger bull, BH 970 Domino 318, owned by Bieber Herefords.

Although the bull was smaller than Mr. Incredible, given a little more time, he could grow to be even larger, Sellman said.

Round robin highlights fair events Friday

FILER — What difference does a year make?

None in the case of the 4-H round-robin fitting and showing competition Friday at the Twin Falls County Fair.

The winner, as in last year's contest, was Angela Knapp of Twin Falls. Knapp won the 4-H horse fitting and showing competition earlier in the week to qualify for the round robin.

Gordon Schroeder of Kimberly just missed qualifying for the round robin last year, placing third in the 4-H swine fitting and showing competition. This year, he won the swine contest, but on Friday, he found himself hoping for better luck next year as he finished second to Knapp in the round-robin contest.

The round-robin fitting and showing competition was one of the main events on a cool, windy day at the Filer fairgrounds, where attendance appeared to be down from Thursday's attendance of almost 20,000. Parking places were plentiful, and any attraction that was indoors looked more attractive than it had earlier in the week.

The round-robin contest takes the top 4-H and Future Farmers of America showmen for sheep, swine, steers, dairy cattle and horses and puts each to the test of showing all five animals.

Although the 15 contestants were the top showmen chosen from hundreds of 4-H and FFA entrants at the fair, showing unfamiliar animals in the round-robin competition is a stiff challenge.

Kayla Edwards of Filer, the winner of the 4-H sheep contest, found out just how challenging while she was showing a horse during Friday's contest. As she stood next to the horse in front of the judge, the horse reared, pulling away from her grasp.

"I didn't know you weren't supposed to pull on it (the reins)," she said later. "It scared me. I'm afraid of horses anyway."

In the FFA competition, Kristen Hansen of Murtaugh won the junior division, while Shannon Jones of Kimberly won the senior division.

The cold weather affected, but did not deter, a group of youngsters and their dogs entered in the 4-H dog competition. Arms were wrapped around big dogs, and little dogs were wrapped in blankets and towels to ward off the gusting wind.

The dogs were judged both in obedience and in fitting and showing. A 4-H leader explained that the first division demonstrates how well the youths trained their dogs. The second demonstrates how well they show off their dogs.

At one point, the judge's call of "clean up!" interrupted the fitting and showing contest, when a poodle did more than piddle in the show arena. A "pooper scooper" was brought in before the judging continued.

Susie Williams, 16, from Twin Falls, aced the fitting-and-showing grand championship with her collie, appropriately named Ace, and her know-how from her fourth consecutive placing in one of the top two spots.

Williams began raising collies after she received one for her ninth birthday. Ace, the son of that dog, has become her best show dog, mostly, she says, because he loves to show.

"He eats it up. He's macho," she says.

Ace's registered name is Susie Q.'s Circuit Breaker, but that title is not macho, or short, enough for easy address.

The reserve champion was Sherry Stalley of Twin Falls.

Other first-place winners, by category, in fitting and showing were: intermediates, Wendy Price of Twin Falls; Junior II, Amy Mason of Kimberly; and Junior I, Stephanie Zinn of Buhl. Williams placed first in the senior division, and Stalley placed first in the guide-dogs division.

First-place winners in obedience, by category, were: guide-dog puppy, Sherry Stalley of Twin Falls; puppy class, Melanie Taylor of Twin Falls; sub-novice, 8 to 10 years old, Stephanie Zinn of Buhl; sub-novice, 11 to 12 years old, Brook Bailey of Buhl; sub-novice, 13 to 14 years old, Maggie Cluff of Twin Falls; sub-novice, 15 to 19 years old, Staci Smith of Twin Falls; novice, Andy Kimball of Twin Falls; and open class, Mike Floyd of Twin Falls.

One of this fair's most popular pets needs no food or water, makes no noise and requires no pooper scooper. These are the pet lizards, the creation

'Asset-stripper' files suit to block sale of Amalgamated Sugar Co.

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

SALT LAKE CITY — A lawsuit seeking to block the proposed sale of the Amalgamated Sugar Co. to a private investor was filed Thursday.

Arguments in the case, which was filed by another private investor who owns a large block of Amalgamated stock, will be heard next week in federal district court in Salt Lake City.

And the week ended with the price of a share of Amalgamated stock climbing to $62 per share on the New York Stock Exchange. That is $2 higher than the price in the purchase offer that Amalgamated officials approved slightly more than a week ago, and it signals the belief of stock traders that another, higher-priced purchase offer for the company is yet to come.

The Ogden, Utah, sugar manufacturer has sugar-beet processing plants in Twin Falls, Paul and Nampa, as well as one in Oregon. Farmers in much of southern Idaho raise sugar beets for processing in the company's plants.

A spokesman for Amalgamated could not be reached for comment on the lawsuit. However, earlier this week, he said the company intended to go through with a special stockholders meeting scheduled for e on the purchase proposal. He said company officials still hoped to have the $60-per-share purchase approved by stockholders.

John Lemke, the company spokesman, said the offer still is attractive despite the higher price per share currently available in the stock market.

The purchase offer — by New York investor Sejim K. Zilkha — is for all of the more than 2 million shares of Amalgamated stock, which would make the purchase price for the company about $120 million.

Often when companies are purchased, the buyer does not acquire all the stock, but only enough to give him controlling interest, Lemke said. Thus, a higher purchase offer might not benefit all stockholders, he said.

But the lawsuit seeking to block the sale claims the proposed sale is "designed to protect the jobs of incumbent Amalgamated management," rather than benefit stockholders.

The suit was filed by National City Lines, a Dallas company that owns

Beavers may survive the winter

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The release of beavers from the bankrupt Rupert Beaver Ranches will proceed and should be nearly complete by the end of the weekend.

Teresa Kloos, the trustee in charge of the ranch and about 400 remaining beavers, said Friday that she is confident the beavers have a fighting chance to survive in the wild despite the fears of some experts. She expects all but about 75 to 100 beavers to be released by the end of the weekend.

Prior to this weekend, Kloos had released more than 500 beavers to adoptive homes on private land throughout Idaho. She had planned to shoot all the beavers she could not give away by Sunday, but publicity about her decision created a wave of public sympathy that led to ample offers of homes for the beavers to spare them from execution.

Several beaver experts have warned that the sympathy may be misplaced, however. They say the animals will die a more painful death in the wild since they will not know how to properly prepare for winter.

But Kloos says the beavers already released seem to be adapting better than many experts had told her was possible. Inspections in some of the areas where the beavers have been released show that they do appear to be establishing homes and gathering food, she says.

And another person familiar with ranch beavers said Friday that he would give the animals a "50-50 chance, maybe better" to survive in the wild.

Allan Stotts, the manager of the Western Beaver Breeders Cooperative Assocation, says many ranch beavers have been known to escape from their cages, only to be discovered by trappers fit and well six months later.

Naturally, whether they survive depends on the climate and presence of predators in the area they are released, he says.

Fire guts bean warehouse

Empty Shoshone facility leveled

Firefighters battle the blaze at the Beakon Bean warehouse

SHOSHONE — A fire Thursday night in Shoshone leveled one of the three Beakon Bean warehouses owned by Oscar and Don Stimpson.

The facility, located off South Rail Street, has been owned by the Stimpsons, who are Lincoln County farmers, for the past 10 years. The elevator and warehouse complex is used to store grain.

However, the family says that the warehouse that burned was somewhat dilapidated and had not been used for several years. However, it did contain some equipment, including a wheat-cleaner, scales and motors.

A spokesman for the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department said there apparently were no injuries.

Firefighters from Shoshone, Gooding, Richfield, Dietrich and the Wood River Rural Fire District responded to the 11:30 p.m. blaze.

Witnesses at the scene said the fire created intense heat. There also were reports of explosions from inside the building.

Nearby resident Bob Severance said he heard a series of dull, rapid explosions about 11:15 p.m. and then the sky lit up with fire.

"I was a block-and-a-half away, and it was so bright I could read my newspaper outside the door. It really lit up the sky.

Vandals hit Jerome windows

JEROME — Police officers in Jerome are looking for a vandal armed with a pellet gun.

About $1,000 worth of damage was caused earlier this week when someone used a BB gun to shoot out windows in two police cruisers and one business building.

According to Sgt. Lonny Meadows, about $500 damage was caused at the First Security Bank when a large window was shot. No entry was gained. Also broken was a window at Blades' Auto.

In addition, windows in a city police cruiser and a county sheriff's car were hit, he said. The city vehicle was parked on North Birch Street and the county vehicle was at East Avenue C and Davis Street.

Meadows said it appeared the damage was the work of the same person or persons.

Man faces third sex charge

TWIN FALLS — A third sexual misconduct charge was filed against a Twin Falls man Thursday, while he remained in the county jail on two previous charges.

Jerrie Ramo, 38, Route 4, Twin Falls, was arraigned Thursday on a charge of having lewd and lascivious conduct with a 13-year-old girl. Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies say the incident occurred on Aug 10.

Twin Falls police have filed two counts of lewd and lascivious conduct against Ramo. One count involves the same 13-year-old cited in Thursday's complaint. The other involves another 13-year-old girl.

All of the charges allege the incidents occurred last month.

Ramo's bond for all three charges has been set at more than $90,000.

Two arraigned in arson case

JEROME — Two Jerome men were arraigned Friday in Fifth District Court in Jerome on third-degree arson charges, a felony.

The charges stem from the burning of two trucks last May at Reservoir Ranch northwest of Jerome.

Michael L. Hepworth, 19, and John Baldwin, 21, both requested preliminary hearings. Baldwin also requested, and was granted, the services of the public defender.

The charges against the two men allege that on May 14 they burned a 1958 truck and a 1975 truck that were parked at Reservoir Ranch. The vehicles were owned by Dan Forsyth and Dennis Adfield.

Authorities say the two trucks caught fire while the men were attempting to siphon gasoline from them.

"Minutes after the fire broke out, electricity in the area tripped on and off a couple of times — then went out for good."

The fire interrupted electrical service to Shoshone residents for approximately 30 minutes.

A spokesman for the sheriff's office said investigator Jim Whitehead of Twin Falls, a member of the state arson squad, arrived at the scene Friday in an effort to determine the cause of the blaze.

"We just don't know at this time what started it," assistant police chief Dean Larsen said.

Crews were on the scene until approximately 9 a.m. mopping up and watching for "hot spots." The rubble continued to smolder throughout the day.

A building filled with grain directly south of the destroyed building was scorched on the exterior, but no damage was reported to any stored produce.

No damage estimate was available Friday.

of Ken Allred of Buhl, the owner of the Wood Hollow outside of Buhl.

Ken's father, John Allred, obligingly demonstrated the colorful creatures at the Wood Hollow's fair booth. The foam rubber reptiles have a "leash" of wire, which makes them waggle in a convincing manner.

John said his son created the creatures for a fair sale item. At $3 each — two for $5 — the lizards were much more expensive than the free KLIX clickers, another item popular among youthful fair-goers. But to the relief of the adults, they were far more quiet.

Across the fairgrounds, a young woman was climbing onto a horse, looking every inch a rodeo queen. With her blue-spangled shirt, tight-fitting jeans and red, yellow, green and pink cowboy boots, Sharon Cook, last year's Miss Rodeo Idaho, prepared to show this year's candidates the riding pattern they must complete as part of the competition.

She had only one more day until she gives up the silver badge on her hat to one of the hopefuls who nervously watched her from atop their mounts.

Cook and her horse walked and galloped through the complicated pattern that includes circles, figure 8's and a finale — "buzzing" of the crowd, when the rider races around the grandstand, her hand fluttering like a fan.

After the girls finished the pattern one by one, they drew lots, traded horses and rode through another time.

A sympathetic onlooker asked one of the girls if she would like a drink. "Oh I couldn't drink anything right now," she blurted out. Then hastily she added, "But thank you."

The results of the queen contest will be announced tonight at the rodeo.

The candidates are: Leisa Olsen, 19, of Gooding; Myla Meiers, 21, of Boise; Joan Osterhout, 18, of Twin Falls; Valerie Eason, 19, of Nampa; Sue Anne Bennett, 20, of Boise; Michelle Kelley, 19, of Albion; Denise Johnson, 18, of Buhl; Lynda Friesz, 21, of Boise; Vickie Rutledge, 20, of Nampa; and Tamara Estes, 20, of Declo.

more than 15 percent of Amalgamated's stock. National City Lines apparently is controlled by Harold Simmons, because Simmons previously has been the only outside investor reported to own a 15 percent block of Amalgamated stock.

According to a Forbes magazine article last year, Simmons is known in Wall Street jargon as an "asset stripper." In other words, he is an investor who looks for companies that can be purchased for less than the value of the company's property, due to a depressed stock price. An asset stripper can buy such a low-priced company, then recoup his investment by selling the company's property.

It was the fear of how Simmons intended to use his block of stock in Amalgamated that led Amalgamated's management to seek a buyer for the company, several stock analysts say.

Whether or not Amalgamated sought him out, Selim K. Zilkha's offer to purchase the company and turn it into a privately held company has been embraced by company officials.

Zilkha, a U.S. citizen born to an Iraqi banking family, founded a chain of stores featuring products for new mothers and mothers-to-be. Earlier this year, he sold the Motherhood chain, which has stores in England, Europe and the United States.

Anticipates costs for terminated nuke plants

Burley adopts $7.717 million budget for 1983

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — With little fanfare, Burley City Council has approved a $7.717 million budget for fiscal year 1983.

There was no public comment on the budget at a hearing Tuesday night, held before council voted on the proposal. The new budget will go into effect Oct. 1.

Under the adopted budget, the municipal electrical department's budget will increase to $3.897 million, compared to $2.935 million in the 1981-82 budget.

A new contract with the Bonneville Power Administration, from which Burley purchases its power, calls for a 60 percent increase in the rate the city pays for its power.

"Our hands are basically tied," said Mayor Chuck Shadduck about the BPA rate hike.

And anticipated payments to the Washington Public Power Supply System to cover the costs of terminating two nuclear-power plants is another reason for the increase in the electrical department's budget.

Burley was one of 88 Northwest cities and utilities that owned a share in the WPPSS projects. No payments have been made by the city to cover the termination costs. However, the city's estimated 1983 termination bill is $560,000, according to city officials.

The city is conferring with consultants on how much of a rate increase it will have to pass along to its electrical customers to cover both the BPA increase and the expected WPPSS payment, Shadduck said.

Overall, the city has attempted to hold the line on spending in the 1982-83 budget, the mayor said. Employee salary increases account for most of the expanded figures in the budget, he said.

"It's a good budget. A lot of work was put into it. There were not any services cut and no programs stopped, and we don't intend to cut any," Shadduck said.

Gooding County approves budget for fiscal 1983

GOODING — A budget of nearly $4 million for the next fiscal year in Gooding County has been adopted by the county commissioners.

No opposition was voiced at a public hearing Tuesday on the 1982-83 budget, which goes into effect on Oct. 1.

The commissioners lowered the weed-control and district court funds by $10,000 each.

The total budget of $3.893 million, along with $168,643 in federal revenue-sharing funds, was then adopted.

Rupert delays action on weatherization project

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News correspondent

RUPERT — Rupert City Council has decided to request an extension from the Bonneville Power Administration concerning the city's possible administration of a weatherization program.

Under the terms of the Northwest Power Bill, the BPA must give priority to conservation programs. One component of the conservation programs offered by the BPA is weatherization aid, according to Elmer Schenk, the city's electrical department supervisor.

The city has until Sept. 15 to decide if it will administer the weatherization program. But Schenk said council members agreed during their Tuesday night meeting that they need more information about the program, so the city will request an extension on the deadline.

City officials tentatively are scheduled to meet with BPA representatives next week, Schenk said.

If the city declines the program, then it will be offered to the state, Schenk said. Under state administration, the weatherization program would be available to low-income families only, he said.

However, under city control, weatherization grants or no-interest loans would be available to anyone despite his or her income, he said.

There is no deadline on the city to decide whether it will administer other parts of the conservation program, which includes loans for the installation of energy-saving devices, Schenk said.

But if the city declines to participate in the conservation efforts, Rupert could face a surcharge, he warned.

The cost of funding conservation programs is reflected in the increased rates that the BPA is charging its municipal customers, Mayor Bill Whittom said. Those rates are being passed on to the city's customers as part of a 76 percent rate increase approved by council Tuesday.

Hailey approves $701,441 budget

HAILEY — Hailey City Council unanimously approved a $701,441 budget for fiscal year 1983, following a public hearing Thursday.

"No one attended the public hearing, except for a couple reporters, so the budget was approved as proposed," Mayor Wordell Rainey said Friday.

The budget, which amounts to a 5.6 percent increase from this year, will take effect Oct. 1.

Under the plan, the general operation of the city will cost an estimated $384,141. That includes police protection, street maintenance and general administration, but not sewer or water services. Last year's general operating fund was $359,008.

Funding for the water and sewer system is pegged at $278,000, up slightly from the $249,583 budgeted last year.

Council also has budgeted a separate fund of $39,300 for capital improvements to the sewer system. The bulk of the money will be used to purchase a $30,000 generator for the sewage-treatment plant. The generator will be used to maintain the system in cases of power outages.

Gooding starts water flowing into city's new treatment plant

By JANENE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

GOODING — The new waste-water treatment plant in Gooding is one step closer to completion.

The plant was put on line Monday when water was turned into the system.

Mayor Gene Heller told City Council on Tuesday evening that it will take a couple of days to fill the system so it can begin operation.

"If everything works, we can accept the plant as substantially complete," he said.

The city declined to accept the plant earlier this year because security measures were incomplete.

"The fence has been installed with a locking gate, so we can secure the site," Heller said.

According to Heller, the contractor, Valley Utilities Inc., has approximately 30 days to finish miscellaneous details.

The plant originally was scheduled for completion June 14.

In other council business Tuesday:

• Council heard a proposal from Obenchain Insurance of Twin Falls.

The city's present insurance contract expires Oct. 1, and council is interested in alternate proposals.

• A representative of the Gooding School District asked council to consider a glass-container ordinance.

Broken glass and litter on public property have become a problem, the representative told council.

The matter was taken under advisement.

• Council also reviewed the city's weed-control ordinances.

Heller said the responsibility for controlling weeds remains with the property owner or occupant.

More help needed

Minidoka schools forced to hire additional teachers

RUPERT — An unexpected surge in the number of first-graders has forced the Minidoka School District to shift some students and hire three additional teachers to keep classes at manageable sizes.

School officials were surprised last week by the number of incoming first-time students.

Enrollment in the district's first-grade classrooms has climbed to 525 students, compared to 421 students at this time last year, according to Floyd Merrill, assistant schools superintendent. However, the growth in other grades has been within the administration's projections, he said.

The board held a special meeting late last week to hire an additional first-grade teacher for Paul Elementary School and one for Heyburn Elementary. A third additional first-grade teacher is to be hired this week for Pershing Elementary, which will begin receiving the overflow of students who are now at Memorial Elementary School on Monday.

The additional classes will give each of the elementary schools five first-grades, Merrill said. The additional classes will reduce class sizes to about 23 students each.

"We wanted to get class sizes down to where we could teach the kids," Merrill said.

Kimberly seeks another instructor for kindergarten

KIMBERLY — An additional elementary teacher will be hired by the Kimberly School District following action taken during the regular meeting of the school board Wednesday night.

The district currently has 86 children in its kindergarten classes, according to Superintendent George Powell. The extra teacher authorized by the board will reduce the size of kindergarten classes to 22 students per class, he said.

The board also approved a Parent-Teacher-Student Organization open house on Oct. 4. The meeting, which will begin at 8 p.m., will take place in the lunch room, followed by teachers greeting parents in their respective classrooms.

Wendell council hires a new deputy clerk

WENDELL — A new deputy clerk has been hired in Wendell.

Thursday night, City Council approved the recommendation of city Clerk June Holm to appoint Racquel Braga as deputy clerk.

Braga, who began work on a part-time basis in August, will replace Helga Stump, who resigned Aug. 26 to spend more time at home.

The new deputy previously worked for her parents at Home Roofing and Siding in Wendell. She also was a supervisor at Clear Springs Trout Co. of Buhl.

In other business:

• Council accepted a $3,495 bid from Herb Lage Construction Co. of Wendell to shorten the windows and lower the ceiling of the City Hall office.

Other repair work being done to City Hall includes sandblasting and sealing outer brick walls, and painting the metal roof.

• Mayor Otto Lemke reported that he has received complaints about raw garbage being burned in the city. Council directed the police chief to enforce more strictly the city ordinance that prohibits garbage burning.

Shoshone council approves city land for salvage yard

By JANENE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE — Two Blaine County men who want to establish a salvage yard on 38 acres of land owned by the city of Shoshone have won approval of their project.

Tuesday night, Shoshone City Council agreed to lease the land to the men.

The land, located near the southwest corner of the city, is outside the city limits. The lease is conditional upon the pair being able to obtain operating permits from Lincoln County and the county Planning and Zoning Commission.

A conditional-use permit for a similar operation northwest of Shoshone was denied by the planning and zoning board in August.

Council also adopted the city's newly recodified ordinances.

The laws were reviewed and updated by the city's attorney, Howard Adkins, and they have been published in book form.

City Clerk Ruth Chess said a copy of the updated code will be placed in the city library.

Mayor Reid Nowby appointed Councilman Tim Ridinger and residents James Pate and Gilbert Pearson to serve on an advisory board that will assist in the preparation of the city's block-grant application.

The city wants to apply for federal funds to install sidewalks, curbs and gutters, and refurbish facilities in the downtown business district.

Bruin defense records 2nd shutout

NAMPA — Credit the Twin Falls defense with a 21-year precedent and the Bruins with a 2-0 record.

After a fumbling, sputtering start, the Bruins, held together by their defense, got the offense rolling and cruised past the Nampa Bulldogs 39-0 Friday night.

Coupled with its 51-0 whitewashing of Jerome last week, the defense, anchored by the three interior linemen, gave Twin Falls its first back-to-back shutout situation since 1961. But it has a ways to go to equal that 1961 record. That team opened and closed with three blankings but had the ignominious record of not beating any team that scored on it. That team was tied 14-14 by Boise and lost to Idaho Falls, Caldwell and Borah.

That the shutout mark was to be carried to eight quarters wasn't apparent in the early going as Twin Falls fumbled the ball away on its first three possessions. But the young Bulldogs, who got off just three passes all night against the fierce line rush, couldn't capitalize on them.

Then with just under five minutes left in the quarter, quarterback Mike Rice called his own number on an option, ducked inside the defensive corner and romped 37. From then on it was all Twin Falls, the Bruins racking up 352 yards on the ground.

Rice's run sparked a 73-yard drive and Twin Falls went ahead when Virgil Hurt belted in from the three. The point-after snap to holder Andy Toolson didn't come off but Toolson scooped it up and, while rolling right, hit junior tight end Mark Mumm with a two-point conversion.

On its next possession, Twin Falls rolled for 72 yards in 10 plays, Hurt's 23-yard romp and a 27-yard pass from Rice to Standing the big gainers. Corky Federico ended that from two yards away and Brent Standing then drilled the first of three conversion.

After another Nampa punt, Twin Falls ground out another touchdown, Rice keeping for the final yard with 2:45 left in the half. Twin Falls got the ball back one more time and immediately went to the air. Rice took the ball to the 19 but then saw that chance snuffed out when Ron Griffin came up with an interception at the goal line.

Nampa's defense kept the Bruins out of the end zone in the third quarter — but not off the scoreboard. Scott Morgan got the scoring effort going when he gathered in a Nampa punt on his own 25 and was denied the touchdown 50 yards later by the last Bulldog with a chance for the tackle. After one first down, Nampa's defense and a penalty hurled the Bruins back and on fourth down Standing drilled a 27-yard field goal.

As the third period ended, Hurt took an option pitch to the Nampa two and two plays into the final quarter Federico collected his second touchdown. In the closing minutes, Scott Morgan shook loose on an 11-yard touchdown run and Nate Burke added the extra point.

Kimberly's Dan Nelson makes a dive for Murtaugh's Roy Nebeker during the first quarter of Friday's game.

Red Devils' defense stifles Kimberly

Murtaugh forces 8 turnovers to send record to 2-0

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

KIMBERLY — Murtaugh defensive Coach Lavear Bennett could be allowed one fleeting moment to gloat.

With his Red Devils defensive unit just coming up with its eighth turnover of the night while sitting on a 16-0 lead four minutes from the game's end, he turned to offensive mentor Jim Anderson and, with a big smile, asked: "How many chances do you need?"

It reduced the coaching staff to laughter and basically said it all as the Devils knocked off the Kimberly Bulldogs 16-0 to run their record to 2-0 in the young season.

The victory over the arch-rival Bulldogs followed an opening decision against Valley and marked the first time in six years Murtaugh has swept the two-game set.

"The last time was when we had nine seniors on the team," said Bennell, who has been with Red Devil football since 1953. "This year we have 10," Anderson rejoined.

But while the Murtaugh defense could provide a little self-indulgence on one side of the field, it earned full respect on the other.

"That stunning defense kicked our fannies," said Kimberly Coach Gordon Hogan.

"Last week we had just one turnover. We lost a fumble. I don't know why we had that tonight."

Murtaugh picked off four passes and recovered four fumbles but the big reason for the win came in its ability to block (kinda) two punts in the second period. One paid off in an immediate touchdown and the other, despite a possession exchange, led to the clincher.

But Hogan wasn't really ready to credit Murtaugh with the second one — which Steve Nelson took into the end zone for the quick six.

That came just after Kimberly had held Murtaugh on a fourth down at the one. Kimberly couldn't get out of the hole and tried to punt. That's where the stories differed.

Murtaugh's coaching staff was certain that Ross Curtis jarred the Kimberly blocker back into the path of the ball. Hogan felt "he just retreated." Either way, the "block" came off a Kimberly player and it was sweet pickings for Nelson.

Earlier, Curtis blocked a punt that eventually led to Murtaugh's first touchdown, a 12-yard pass from Roy Nebeker to James Mathews. Tim Goll rammed both two-point conversions across.

In the second half, the turnover plague hit Kimberly harder as Arlon Earl and Goll picked off passes and Murtaugh recovered two more fumbles.

The last fumble gave the Red Devils possession on Kimberly's 26 — and elicited the question from Bennett. He got his answer two plays later when Murtaugh fumbled it back at the 15.

From there, Tim Ferrell hit Kevin Holcomb with a pass to midfield and, after a first down, went with the same pattern over the middle to Holcomb who picked it off in stride and went into the left corner of the end zone to break the shutout. The two-point pass was batted away with 1:38 left and Murtaugh wore the clock out from there.

Minico bests Burley, 21-6

By CHRIS HAFT
Times-News writer

RUPERT — Atoning enough for their errors with big plays, the Minico High Spartans defeated the Burley Bobcats 21-6 Friday night.

Neither of the cross-town rivals gave a particularly sharp performance, but the Spartans, who put forth a determined defensive effort and amassed 315 yards total offense, played well enough to prevail.

The Bobcats, 0-2, actually appeared to have the better of it at the outset.

Burley jumped to a quick 6-0 lead and had little problem in stifling Minico's single wing offense.

But the Spartans righted themselves and when the Bobcats lost two-way starter Dennis Konrad to a bruised back muscle, Minico's victory was practically assured.

"I'm not taking anything away from Minico, they did a fine job defensively," Burley Coach John Billetz said. "But when Konrad went down (midway in the second quarter) that hurt us quite a lot."

Even had Konrad stayed healthy, it might not have mattered, considering Minico's well-rounded attack.

"I was happy with my defense and I was even happier with my offense," Minico Coach Red Halverson said. "We gained 300-some yards on offense after not doing too well last week against Bishop Kelly (a 23-10 Minico victory)."

Each team needed only one play to get their first score.

After taking the opening kickoff, Minico failed to get a first down and had to punt. Von Peterman's kick, however, was blocked by a hoarde of Bobcats and recovered by Peterman at his own two-yard-line.

Burley quarterback Scott Barrett scored on the Bobcats' first play from scrimmage, going straight up the middle. Barrett's conversion pass failed, giving Burley a 6-0 lead.

Midway through the opening quarter, the Spartans went ahead 7-6 on a brief scoring drive of their own.

The Bobcats appeared to have Minico bottled up on its own nine after a 47-yard punt by Barrett. But on first down, Peterson threw into the wind with all his might and Fridley Scholtz caught the ball at the Spartans 40, headed down the right sideline, outran several Burley tacklers and went all the way. Peterman's PAT kick was good.

Early in the second quarter, Minico took possession on its own 24 after forcing an Barrett to throw an interception.

The Spartans drove to Burley's 24 but quarterback Jerry Johnson fumbled the ball away at Burley's 16. The Bobcats recovered with 7:49 left in the half.

But Minico's defense gave no ground and frustrated Barrett again, blocking his punt with 6:06 to go.

Minico took over at the Bobcats 11. Three plays later, David Pena surged in from the four with 5:49 left for Minico's second touchdown. Peterman's kick gave the Spartans a 14-0 halftime lead.

The Spartans widened their lead immediately after the half.

Minico took the second half kickoff and drove 66 yards on 14 plays, the last being Pena's six-yard run for the score. Peterman again converted.

The Bobcats' spirits were brightened momentarily when reserve quarterback Randy Austin completed an 87-yard pass and run to Dan Egbert with 2:47 left in the game. But the play was called back because of a clipping penalty.

Jackson nabs robbers

COSTA MESA, Calif. (UPI) — California Angels slugger Reggie Jackson captured two robbery suspects who stood and waited with the baseball star Friday until police arrived because "they figured he could outrun them," officers said.

Jackson was driving through the Orange County community where he lives shortly before noon when he heard a burglar alarm at a home and saw two young men coming out of the house. He got out of his car and approached the two.

"He figured something was wrong," Lt. Tom Durham said, "and he had a neighbor call police. He just told them, 'Stand here, let's wait for the cops.'

"An officer at the scene said the suspects recognized him and that was the reason they did not run. They figured Jackson could outrun them."

Durham said officers found some jewelry, apparently from the burglarized house, in the suspects' pockets.

The two men, Amadis Ahmed Zabala, 23, of Honolulu, and Franklin Packard Firicin, 31, of Chester, Pa., were booked for burglary and held in lieu of $25,000 bail.

Top four men's seeds meet in semis today

Evert rips Jaeger, meets Mandlikova

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chris Evert Lloyd, in quest of her sixth U.S. Open crown, routed Andrea Jaeger with the loss of only three games Friday to set up a championship showdown with Hana Mandlikova.

Evert, insisting time and again that the one hour, 14-minute match was "a lot tougher than the score indicates," gave away little in beating Jaeger 6-1, 6-2 after Mandlikova defeated Pam Shriver, the conqueror of top seed Martina Navratilova, 6-4, 2-6, 6-2.

This is the seventh time Evert has reached the final since 1975, and a sixth title would put her alone in third place among the all-time women's champions behind Molla Mallory (eight) and Helen Wills Moody (seven).

Evert's last U.S. championship came in 1980 when she defeated Mandlikova, and she holds an 11-2 career advantage over the fifth-seed from Czechoslovakia.

The women's final will be played today, sandwiched between the men's semifinals pairing Jimmy Connors against Guillermo Vilas and defending champion John McEnroe against Ivan Lendl. This is the first time since 1969 that the top four seeded men all reached the semifinals.

After Jaeger, a winner over Evert in the French Open this year, held service to open the match, Evert swept through the next seven games. A break in the fourth game of the second set gave Evert a 3-1 lead before Jaeger followed with her only break of the match in the fifth game. But Evert came back with another service break at 15 in the sixth game and won the next two games to end the match.

"I felt like at any time the match could turn around if I let up," Evert said. "She's a tough opponent. It was a lot tougher than the score indicates. It was a strange kind of match. Obviously, I won all the big points, but it was just a matter of a few points in each set."

Both Evert and Jaeger pointed to the first three games of the second set as the key to the match. Jaeger had two break points in the opening game and three more in the third, and if she had won both games, that would have given her a 3-0 lead.

"I just wasn't concentrating out there," Jaeger said. "For some reason my head wasn't telling me what to do."

Mandlikova, at 20, feels she has matured quite a bit since losing to Evert in the 1980 final 5-7, 6-1, 6-1.

"I was so young, it was difficult on me," she said. "I felt the pressure. But I'm older now and the situation isn't so bad. I concentrate better now, my passing shots are better and for sure I'm playing better from the baseline."

The world's fifth ranking women's player also claims to be "tougher, mentally and physically," as a result of the back injury that sidelined her for four months last winter.

"That was the first time I couldn't do what I wanted to do, because of the pain," she explained. "I wanted to practice, I wanted to run, but I couldn't. I'm a very temperamental person. It was a very sad time for me.

"I feel a little older after this period. I'm more patient. You know it's just not tennis, that health is number one. Before, it was tennis."

Shriver was generally pleased with her performance in the Open, coming so soon after her latest shoulder problems kept her out of competition for the best part of two months, and said she played well enough against Mandlikova until the middle of the third set "when I lost the zing ... volleys and my legs got tired.

"But I'm not pleased that I haven't put together those two big wins.

Hamblin, Oliver tied for Idaho Open lead

ELKHORN — Twin Falls' Mike Hamblin mastered Friday afternoon's gusting winds to shoot a three-under-par 69 to tie Nampa's Dean Oliver for the lead in the Simplot-Idaho Open Golf Tournament.

Oliver fired a 69 in the morning when the winds were relatively calm. The winds picked up in velocity in the afternoon when Hamblin played.

The field will play 18 holes today and Sunday to complete the annual 54-hole tourney.

The two amateurs are one stroke ahead of a pair of professionals, Bob Betley of Fish Haven and Tom Ducey of Jackson, Wyo. Both played their rounds in the morning.

John Reeves, a professional from Laurel, Mont., is all alone in fifth place at 71 and there is a four-way deadlock for sixth place at 73 that includes Boise's Jerry Breaux, Las Vegas' Tom Storey and two Utah pros — Kim Thompson of Midvale and Reed Goodcliffe of Brigham City.

Seven players are tied at 74. Included in the group are defending champion Ron Ptacek of Boise and Twin Falls' Bob Campbell.

The championship flight of amateurs is paced by Ketchum's George Arnold at 73 while three players — Ketchum's Doyle Corbett and Boise's Chuck Kozak and Steve Bebee — are tied for second at 75. Perry Hanchey of Twin Falls is sixth with a 79.

Ketchum's Ralph Hill shot a 73 to lead the first flight. Mike Mooney of Blackfoot is second at 76 and Rupert's John Haynes is third with a 77. Bob Saxvik of Burley is fifth was a 79.

Nampa's Wayne Peterson leads the second flight with a 77 while Sun Valley's Dude Cain is second at 78 and Murray Satterfield of Nampa is third at 79.

Jerome uses air game to defeat Gooding

GOODING — With their running game shut down, the Jerome Tigers utilized their passing game to trim the Gooding Senators 23-6 Friday night.

Gooding jumped out to an early first quarter lead on Sonny Cabbage's 39-yard sprint to go ahead of the Tigers 6-0.

The Senators managed to cut off the Tigers running game through the first quarter and for most of the night, but the Tigers, behind senior quarterback Bob Stone, fought back in the second, scoring two touchdowns and a field goal.

The first touchdown came on a Spencer Tolman nine-yard run and Arnie Peterson's conversion was good to put the Tigers ahead to stay.

The second came on a 45-yard pass to Rice from Stone to up the score to 13-6.

Gary Hulsey added a 19-yard field goal to make it 16-6 at the half.

Both teams were scoreless in the third quarter, but in the fourth Jerome added one more TD for the icing on the cake.

Despite the score, Gooding coach Paul Cox still felt confident about his squad.

"I felt we did just as well physically as Jerome, we just weren't prepared mentally."

Cox also added that turnovers played a key role in the outcome.

"We hardly ever had the ball," Cox said, "that's something we'll have to work on."

This was the first meeting between Jerome and Gooding since 1977.

Gooding hosts Glenns Ferry Sept. 17 while Jerome visits Wood River the same day.

Castleford 14, Oakley 8

OAKLEY — Castleford's Rob Owens stole the show in the second quarter, earning two touchdowns to put the Wolves in front of conference rival Oakley 14-8 Friday.

Owens' runs of one and five yards spelled the difference for Castleford, which saw the visitors earn 197 total yards, while Oakley netted a negative two rushing.

A brutal game by anyone's standards, Oakley lost two of its top lineman in the contest. Injured were tackle Julian Critchfield and guard John Burch. Critchfield was lost early in the first quarter with a leg injury, while Burch suffered a concussion.

"Quite simply, they were beating the heck out of each other," said Oakley Coach Doug Bailey. "We had a similar kind of game last year when we beat them 8-0."

Oakley's sole score came in the final quarter on a 58-yard pass from Mike Martin to Gus Gorringe.

Kuna 20, Buhl 14

KUNA — The Kuna Kavemen pieced together a 60-yard, fourth-quarter drive to break a 14-14 tie and defeat the Buhl Indians 20-14 Friday night.

Warren Swartz capped that drive by getting the last two yards and it was Swartz who proved the most damaging to the Indians as he scored all three touchdowns.

Buhl broke out on top when Charlie Carter scored on a three-yard run after Buhl had picked up a turnover deep in Kuna's territory. The Indians added the two-point conversion.

But in the second quarter Kuna put together two drives. Swartz scored from a yard away and Brett Reynolds booted the extra point just before halftime the Kavemen took the lead on a five-yard burst by Swartz and Reynolds again converted.

Buhl pulled back into a tie in the third quarter when Bostock took a 30-yard pass from Carter but Kuna stopped the extra-point run to preserve the tie and set the stage for the clinching drive.

Camas Cty. 45 Shoshone 0

FAIRFIELD — The Camas County Mushers showed a balance of offensive and defensive scoring in blowing past the young Shoshone Indians 45-0 Friday afternoon.

Coach Ed Blankenship's defensive unit set up three of the team's first four touchdowns as they pulled into a 26-0 halftime lead and never looked back.

The Mushers opened the day with a five-play, 60-yard drive that culminated in a seven-yard burst by Dave Laing. Lonnie Funkhouser rammed the conversion across.

Minutes later, Shoshone's punter was dropped before he could get the punt off, giving Camas County the ball on the Indian 24-yard line. Mike Faulkner plunged over from the one a few plays later. Early in the second quarter, Joe Cox picked off a Shoshone pass and romped 49 yards, only to be knocked out of bounds at the one. Faulkner finished that drive off in one play and then, after recovering a fumble at the Shoshone 23, Camas County wound up the first half on a 14-yard sprint by Funkhouser.

In the third quarter, Shoshone gave up yards grudgingly but couldn't hold the Mushers. They moved 63 yards in 13 plays with the biggest run coming on the 34-yard payoff by Funkhouser.

Joe Cox started the last quarter with a 10-yard scoring run and Faulkner ended it with a 58-yard romp.

Carey 42, Richfield 20,

CAREY — Three quick touchdowns early in the third quarter powered Carey to a 42-20 victory over Richfield Friday afternoon.

Neil Parke scored 28 of Carey's points while Richfield quarterback Darren Exon threw three touchdown passes.

Richfield was within reach of the Panthers at halftime, trailing 20-6. But the Tigers fumbled in the opening minute of the second half and Carey's Mark Conrad recovered the ball and ran 20 yards for a touchdown.

Carey scored on its next two possessions for a 42-6 lead midway through the third quarter.

Parke, a 5-8, 140-pounder, caught touchdown passes of 14 and 60 yards and scored on runs of 26 and 14 yards. He added a pair of two-point conversions, one on a pass and one via the ground.

Carey ran for 270 yards and quarterback Brad Tingey passed for 107 yards. Mike Shaffer led the Carey defense, recording 26 tackles from his middle linebacker position.

Exon's TDs included a 70-yarder to Jim Newberry, 4 yards to Jerry Robinson and 2 yards to Kalen Robbins.

Carey, 1-0, hosts Clark County in a Sawtooth Conference game next week while Richfield, 0-2, opens Sawtooth play at home against Rockland. Carey and Richfield will meet again Sept. 24 in a Sawtooth Conference encounter.

Valley 33, Malad 25

EDEN — A powerful 405-yard offensive performance gained the Valley Vikings a 33-25 victory over Malad Friday night.

Valley quarterback Gary Taylor completed over 60 percent of his passes for 95 yards.

The Vikings scored quickly in the first quarter with a seven-yard run by running back Art Henry. But Malad retaliated with a 64-yard bomb from Burk Price to Tony Tracy on its first possession after the kickoff.

Price followed that touchdown pass with an identical one to Tracy for a 30-yard score. But then Valley began to force the game its direction.

Valley's Rick Schwarz recovered a Malad fumble on the two-yard line and Gary Taylor snuck over on the next play for the score. Taylor then connected with 151-pound junior Marvin Mussmann for a 35-yard score to complete the the half.

Malad opened the second half with an 80-yard pass from Price to Tracy for an additional six points. But that momentum was quickly quelched as Taylor scored for Valley on its first possession of the second half.

Fourth-quarter scoring saw Taylor score again on a 15-yard run. And finally, with only two minutes left, Malad's Price hit Dave Evans for a final 45-yard score.

Wendell 28, Wood River 26

WENDELL — Wendell's Trojans had only one quarter with points on the board, but it was all they needed, as they got past A-2 rival Wood River 28-26 Friday night.

Wendell junior quarterback Matt Bertagnolli hit two receivers, Mitch Swanson, for 71 yards, and Kelly Westendorf on two shorter passes to lead the scoring frenzy. The other Trojan touchdown came on a run of 35 yards by senior Steve Fields.

Wood River coughed up the ball three times within its own 30-yard line, each being converted into a score.

"It was mostly 'Merry Christmas' on their part — miscues and pitches missed," according to Wendell's statistician. Coaching for Wendell was defensive coordinator Jerry Allen, who filled in for hospitalized Frank Stevens.

For the Wolverines, a steady scoring drive saw the visitors score once each quarter, starting with a first-quarter 40-yard run by Kyle Warren. Wood River's record now drops to 0-2, with both losses to non-conference foes, while Wendell's evens at 1-1.

Hagerman 28, Glenns Ferry 16

HAGERMAN — The Hagerman Pirates scored on their first possession and added an 86-yard scoring romp by Mark Jones to down the Glenns Ferry Pilots 28-16 Friday night.

Brett Arriaga capped the opening Pirate march with a 26-yard scoring romp and Jones added the two-point conversion. Glenns Ferry got two back when a snap from center in Hagerman's shotgun sailed into the end zone and Arriaga was taken down by Pilot John Harder.

Minutes later Glenns Ferry appeared to have Hagerman in a hole but Jones quickly changed that when he burst untouched up the middle and swerved to the outside to get 86 of his night's 170 yards. Before halftime, Arriaga capped another Hagerman drive from a yard away.

Glenns Ferry drew first blood in the second half when Joe Rodriguez scored on a three-yard burst and then tacked on the two-pointer. But Hagerman nullified that when Rick Claxton, who had four catches for 68 yards, took a 30-yard bomb from Arriaga.

Hooton homers to power Dodgers, Braves club Reds

By United Press International

To some, Nolan Ryan is a tough pitcher to hit against — but not for Dodgers pitcher Burt Hooton.

Hooton homered off Ryan and relievers Terry Forster and Steve Howe each worked their way out of bases-loaded, one-out situations Friday night to help Los Angeles defeat the Astros 3-2 at Houston.

The triumph left the Dodgers 1 ½ games behind first-place Atlanta in the NL West.

The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead in the first on singles by Derrel Thomas and Ken Landreaux, a walk to Pedro Guerrero and a fielder's-choice grounder by Steve Garvey.

Houston tied it 1-1 in the first, when Dickie Thon singled, stole second and scored on a single by Harry Spilman.

Los Angeles made it 2-1 in the second on Hooton's home run into the left-field mezzanine and the Dodgers went ahead 3-1 in the fourth, when Mike Scioscia singled, stole second, went to third on an error and scored on a wild pitch by Ryan.

Houston made it 3-2 in the fifth, when Terry Puhl reached on Garvey's error and scored on a triple by Thon. The Astros loaded the bases with one out but Forster got out of the jam. Houston loaded the bases again in the seventh, but Howe got out of trouble by getting pinch hitter Phil Garner to hit into an inning-ending double play.

The Dodgers used five pitchers, with Howe pitching 1-2-3 innings to earn the victory and boost his record to 7-4. Tom Niedenfuer worked the ninth to record his ninth save.

Ryan, 14-11, went the distance for Houston, striking out nine and walking eight. Ryan's nine strikeouts gave him 3,456 for his career, leaving him 52 short of Walter Johnson's all-time mark.

Braves 8, Reds 2

At Atlanta, Rafael Ramirez slammed a three-run homer and Dale Murphy hit a two-run shot to power the Braves and hand the Reds their seventh straight loss. Murphy's homer, his 35th, came in the first off starter Bob Shirley, 6-12, and followed a walk to Ramirez.

Expos 7, Cubs 2

At Chicago, Al Oliver went 4-for-5 and Warren Cromartie belted a two-run homer to help Steve Rogers and the Expos. Rogers, 17-7, equaled his career high for victories, scattering eight hits over 7 1-3 innings before leaving with a blister.

Phillies 7, Pirates 5

At Pittsburgh, Bill Robinson drove in three runs with a single and a two-run double and Mike Schmidt added two RBI to lead the Phillies. Philadelphia's Pete Rose became the all-time leader in games played by participating in his 3,077th major-league contest.

Mets 2, Cardinals 1

At St. Louis, Craig Swan and Jesse Orosco combined on a three-hitter and Dave Kingman hit the first inside-the-park homer of his career to lead the Mets and knock the Cardinals out of first place in the East. The loss, combined with Philadelphia's victory, left St. Louis a half-game behind the Phillies.

Giants 5, Padres 1

At San Diego, Joe Morgan hit his 12th home run and Fred Breining pitched a six-hitter, leading the Giants to their seventh triumph in the last eight games. Breining, who moved into the starting rotation July 28 after compiling a 6-3 record in 35 relief appearances, went the distance for the second time in five starts and raised his record to 9-4.

Tigers 6, Red Sox 4

Jack Morris broke his own personal Fenway Park jinx Friday night.

Morris won for the first time in Boston and Lou Whitaker, John Wockenfuss and Chet Lemon hit solo home runs to lead the Tigers over the Red Sox.

Morris, 16-14, had lost all five previous career decisions in Boston. Carl Yastrzemski accounted for all four Red Sox runs with an RBI single in the sixth inning and a three-run homer in the eighth.

Yastrzemski's single in the fourth made him the eighth player in major-league history to reach 3,300 hits.

Brewers 5, Yankees 3

At New York, Charlie Moore drove in three runs with a home run, sacrifice fly and an eighth-inning single to lift the Brewers. Mike Caldwell, 15-11, scattered nine hits in going the distance.

Mariners 5, Rangers 2

At Arlington, Texas, Dave Henderson knocked in four runs with a three-run homer and a sacrifice fly and Gaylord Perry combined with Ed VandeBerg on a six-hitter to lead the Mariners. Henderson ripped his 13th home run of the season off starter Frank Tanana, 6-17, in the fourth.

Twins 5, Royals 0

At Kansas City, Mo., Gary Ward's three-run, inside-the-park homer highlighted a five-run, seventh-inning outburst that supported the four-hit pitching of Bobby Castillo. Minnesota played the game without first baseman Kent Hrbek, whose father died of Lou Gehrig's disease earlier in the day.

White Sox 9, A's 3

At Oakland, Steve Kemp drove in four runs with his 15th and 16th homers and Harold Baines and Carlton Fisk each added two-run homers, powering the White Sox to a 9-3 victory over the A's and to within 3 ½ games of first place in the American League West.

Dennis Lamp, Jim Kern and Sparky Lyle combined on a five-hitter as the White Sox scored their ninth victory in the last 11 games and handed the A's their fifth straight loss. Lamp went seven innings for his ninth victory in 16 decisions.

Angels 6, Blue Jays 2

At Anaheim, Calif., pinch hitter Fred Lynn, out of action 10 days with cracked ribs, delivered a clutch three-run double with two outs in the eighth inning to highlight a five-run rally that carried the Angels.

The Angels took advantage of Kansas City's loss to Minnesota to pull to within one game of the Royals in the American League West.

Rodeo

Jerome's Young tied for bareback lead

By RON ZELLAR
Times-News writer

FILER — A nationally-ranked bareback rider from Jerome maintained his standing Friday by moving into a four-way tie in the event at the Twin Falls County Rodeo.

Mickey Young, ranked ninth in this week's Pro Rodeo Association standings, turned in a bareback score of 77 in Friday night's Twin Falls County Rodeo.

Two Canadian riders, Robin Burwash and Steve Durham, also scored 77's Friday. The three will head into tonight's final contest tied with Lewis Field of Utah, who set the pace on a reride during Thursday's rodeo.

All contestants get only one chance in the event, meaning the four runners will split the prize money unless someone posts a better score tonight.

In saddle bronc riding, Shawn Davis of Filer earned a respectable 78 while Brad Gjermundson of Marshall, N.D., became the new leader in the event with a 78.

Davis' score left him tied for third and in good position to move up tonight. Bronc riding is the only event in which a championship will be held, featuring the top 10 riders.

"There are easier ones to ride, but it was a pretty nice kind of horse to draw," said Davis, a former national champion in the event. He added that he wouldn't have entered the competition if he didn't think he had a shot at beating the current leaders.

J.D. Hamaker of Crawford, Neb., scored a 74, while Wolf Hart of Pocatello and Butch Small of DuBois unofficially earned a chance at the championship round with 73's.

The bull riding competition got off to a fast start as the first five bulls threw their riders prematurely. Midway into event, Grant Summers of Gooding moved briefly into fourth place with a spirited ride that saw him score a 71 and get thrown 12 feet in the air after the whistle sounded.

On the very next ride, however, Charlie Needham of Riverton, Wyo., became the new leader with a 77. Needham is ranked 17th nationally in the latest PRCA standings.

In calf roping, none of Friday's cowboys came close to the 9.5-second mark set Wednesday night by Jim Cooper, last year's all-around PRCA champion. Paul Tierney of Rapid City, S.D., moved into second for the week with a time of 10.4 seconds.

The women's barrel racing event saw several contestants move into a tie for second with times of 17.7 seconds. Among them were Lisa Davis of Homedale and Judi Van Dorn of Meridian. Shari Groon of Filer posted an 18.3, well off the mark.

The top four in each event after three performances are:

Bareback

1. Lewis Field, Utah; Robin Burwash and Steve Dunham, Canada; and Mickey Young, Jerome; all with 77.

Calf Roping

1. Jim Cooper, 9.5; 2. Paul Tierney, Rapid City, 10.4; 3. Chris Lybbert, 10.8; 4. Kirk Webb, Jerome, 11.4.

Saddle Bronc

1. Brad Gjermundson, 78; 2. Jerry O'Sullivan, 77; 3. Shawn Davis, Filer, and Dixon Hamilton, both 76.

Bull Riding

1. Charlie Needham, 77; 2. Shane Prescott, Twin Falls, 74; 3. Jim Abeyo and Guy Johansen, both 72.

Barrel Racing

1. Jan Hansen, 17.5; 2. Wanda Scheliari, Sharon Camarillo, Suzzane Fausett, Lisa Davis and Judi Van Dorn, all with 17.7.

Minico's Lara uses the wind to win CSI run by 6 seconds

By CHRIS HAFT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Rather than cast his fate to the wind, Albert Lara cooperated with it.

Lara's ability to cope with Friday's hair-tousling gusts helped him win the boys varsity division of the College of Southern Idaho Invitational Cross Country meet. The Minico High School senior finished the 5,000-meter course in 17:18, six seconds ahead of his closest pursuer, Highland's Greg Kelly.

However, Kelly led Highland to the boys varsity team title, an honor duplicated by the Rams' junior varsity boys.

Twin Falls' girls took the junior varsity crown, while Pocatello, paced by winner Carol Bradley (12:27 for 3,000 meters), topped all varsity girls teams.

Victorious or not, all of the 300-plus entrants from 15 schools had to compete not only with opponents but also ceaseless air currents. Such crosswinds commonly hinder runners, but they didn't bother Lara at CSI.

"I love the wind," he said. "I don't know. I can't run in calm, hot weather."

Minico Coach Darrell Taylor testified to Lara's success in enduring adverse conditions. "He just blocks it out and goes from there," Taylor said.

Lara, who realized the difficulty the wind presented — "You have to lean forward. It was really hard today," he acknowledged — nevertheless managed to work with it rather than fight it.

Heading into the halfway mark, Lara was in fourth place, trailing leader Bob Larsa of Ririe and two other runners. Those top three runners didn't know it, but Lara was using them to his advantage.

"I was trying to use a windbreak," Lara said. "I wanted to go behind someone for the first lap, and it really helped a lot."

Shortly after the leaders completed the first lap, Lara moved into first place and never relinquished that position.

Lara won three races a year ago, but the season ended disappointingly for him when he fell severely ill in late October and missed the state finals. "I was near pneumonia there," Lara recalled. "This year, I'd like to have a more successful season . . . I want to win some big races so I can get some college recognition."

Taylor, for one, believes Lara can achieve his goals.

"Physically, he's in great shape and mentally, he's the best he's been. Those two ingredients usually put him up there," the coach said.

Highland dominated the boys junior varsity race with a 1-2-3-4 Ram finish. Meanhile, Twin Falls earned its girls junior varsity title despite failing to place a runner among the top 10.

New Texas-El Paso coach may hide facts from team

By RICHARD ROSENBLATT
UPI sports writer

For a few college coaches, the football season can only get easier.

As the season swings into its first full schedule today, the coaches at Texas-El Paso, Wisconsin, Georgia Tech, Iowa and West Virginia are faced with the task of playing four of the nation's Top 10 teams.

Texas-El Paso Coach Bill Yung, who made his debut with the Miners a successful one last week with a 20-17 upset of New Mexico, now prepares his team for No. 2 Washington.

"I may not even tell them we're playing Washington," joked Yung. "I'll tell them we're gonna play somebody else and just fly out there."

The apparent mismatch developed when Florida State, originally scheduled to meet Washington Saturday, backed out of the game because of travel costs. Texas-El Paso won just six of 57 games the past five years while Washington is shooting for its third straight Rose Bowl berth.

As for Washington, quarterback Steve Pelluer says his team can't wait to start the season.

"I'm tired of playing against our own defense," said Pelluer. "I'm just glad we don't have to play them in a regular game."

While Texas-El Paso has done nothing in the past to further anger the Huskies, the same can't be said for Wisconsin, Georgia Tech and Iowa. Wisconsin is at No. 10 Michigan, Georgia Tech hosts No. 4 Alabama and Iowa is at No. 3 Nebraska.

Last season, Wisconsin not only scored its first points in five years against Michigan, but beat the Wolverines in the season-opener, 21-14.

"Obviously revenge will be on their minds and will be a big motive," said Wisconsin Coach Dave McClain. "I'm hoping the fact that some of our players played on a team that has beaten Michigan will help."

Michigan linebacker and captain Paul Girgash said the wait for the Wisconsin game has been too long.

"This is one game I think everyone's looking forward to," he said. "It's just too bad we had to wait this long. But I'm sure we'll make the best of it."

In Georgia Tech's case, Coach Bill Curry says his club is faced with a monumental task if they are to beat Alabama on Coach Bear Bryant's 69th birthday.

"All signs are pointing to the fact that Coach Bryant has decided to make this a big year for his Alabama team," said Curry, whose team stunned the Crimson Tide 24-21 for its only victory of the 1981 season. "It's an awesome task for Georgia Tech to take on Alabama year after year in the season opener."

Iowa, which represented the Big Ten Conference in the Rose Bowl last season, returns just six starters. The Hawkeyes, who beat Nebraska 10-7 in the season opener last year, will be hard-pressed to repeat the feat Saturday at Lincoln, Neb.

Eighth-ranked Oklahoma, which plays seven bowl teams from a year ago, hopes to defend its rating against the Peach Bowl champion Mountaineers.

West Virginia Coach Don Nehlen says his club may run into problems.

"We don't have anywhere near the athletes of Oklahoma," said Nehlen. "The folks out there are saying this is a rebuilding year for their offense. What we have to understand is what they are rebuilding from. They've led the country in rushing so many times, when they slip to fifth place, it's a rebuilding year."

In other games involving the Top 20, it's Maryland at No. 5 Penn State, No. 19 Brigham Young at No. 7 Georgia, Tulane at No. 11 Southern Methodist, Tulsa at No. 12 Arkansas, Baylor at No. 14 Ohio State, Houston at No. 15 Miami, Southern California at No. 16 Florida and Long Beach State at No. 17 UCLA.

Seattle won't strike

SEATTLE (UPI) — Members of the Seattle Seahawks decided Friday not to strike the club's season opener against the Cleveland Browns in the Kingdome on Sunday.

The players had threatened a wildcat strike over the coaches' decision to cut Sam McCullum, who served as the team's player representative, because they thought the veteran wide receiver had been eliminated soley because of his union activities.

But cornerback Dave Brown, the new player representative, said the players decided they "owed it to the fans" to play the game.

"What happened was we decided we're not going to strike this game this weekend," Brown said. "The first reason is that we owe it to the fans — we want to really play this game for the fans.

"The second reason is that the executive committee of the NFLPA asked us not to strike the game. We also just want to show our support with the NFLPA. We believe that by not striking this game we just made a statement that we want the negotiation process to go on, because ultimately what we want is a contract.

"We want Sam reinstated, so we're keeping our options open on that one," Brown added.

Milwaukee skipper recognizes risk in signing Cowens

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Milwaukee Bucks' Coach Don Nelson says he was willing to take a "calculated risk" in bringing Dave Cowens out of retirement because he thinks his old teammate can lead the Bucks to the NBA title this season.

The Bucks signed the 33-year-old to a two-year contract Friday, ending his two-year, self-imposed retirement from the Boston Celtics.

Milwaukee had to give up playmaking guard Quinn Buckner for Cowens, a deal Nelson admitted could hurt Milwaukee.

"I am taking a risk, a calculated risk," Nelson said at a news conference, "because no one has ever laid out two years and come back. But I know what makes him tick and what kind of a person he is, and because of that I went ahead with it."

The last two years the Bucks have eagily won the Central Division title only to falter in the playoffs against bigger teams. Nelson said Cowens, at 6-foot-9 and 230 pounds, will give the club the power forward it needs to be a contender.

"Nobody's going to kick sand in our faces anymore," he said. "We feel very strongly our team is ready to make a legitimate run at the title. We feel our time is now — before Bob (Lanier) retires."

The 6-foot-11 Lanier may quit after this season, and Nelson said getting Cowens was part of his commitment to "win a title before Bob goes."

Cowens, a seven-time NBA All-Star, played 10 years for the Celtics and averaged 18.2 points and 14 rebounds per game. One of the most dominant players in the game, he stunned the Celtics when he retired during the exhibition season in 1980.

"I'm coming out of retirement because I feel there's a real challenge here," he said. "I'm a little bit too old to be cocky about it, but I feel I have the ability to contend again, perhaps help them go the one step further and win a championship."

Cowens was athletic director for Regis College at Weston, Mass., the past two years. He said he quit the NBA in 1980 because of nagging injuries and because he was tired of the game.

But he said he feels fine now and has a renewed passion for basketball. Cowens said when he decided to come back he knew he would be going to another team.

"The Celtics didn't need me because they have so many big men already," he said. "They wanted to go for someone else."

Boston almost made a deal with the Phoenix Suns before general manager Red Auerbach started talking seriously with the Bucks. He had not wanted to give Cowens to Milwaukee because he knew it would strengthen a rival.

Nelson is losing one of the league's best point guards in Buckner and admitted: "It is going to be tough without him." He said Brian Winters will join Sidney Moncrief as a starter and that one of them should emerge as the team's playmaking guard.

Nelson said Boston held out for Buckner over players like Junior Bridgeman, Winters and Mickey Johnson.

"I think we have strengthened the Celtics," Nelson admitted. "I think the deal will work out for both teams."

Archer, Gilder tied; McCullough charges

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — George Archer and Bob Gilder continued their assault on par and held a two-stroke lead over fast-charging Mike McCullough Friday after two rounds of a $300,000 PGA tournament.

The tournament is known as the Bank of Boston Classic.

Archer, a 19-year veteran who hasn't won since 1976, survived a double-bogey and posted a 3-under par 68 for a two-round total of 134, 8-under-par. Gilder missed two short putts in the final three holes but still managed his second straight 67 as he gunned for his third title of the year.

McCullough, who missed six weeks with a back injury, had a no-bogey 64, one shot off the course record. He said he plans to leave the tour next year unless he wins a tournament before the season is through.

Five players, including Peter Jacobsen and Lindy Miller who had 65s, were in at 137. Eleven players, including first-round co-leader Ed Sneed, David Graham, Fuzzy Zoeller and Ron Commans, were in at 138. Defending champion Jack Renner was one of 10 players at 139.

Archer, who shared the first-day lead with Sneed, reeled off five straight birdies on the front nine, the longest from 15 feet, and birdied the 12th hole to go to 11-under-par. But the 42-year-old former Masters champion double-bogeyed the 15th when he pushed his drive out of bounds and bogeyed the 16th when he missed a 4-foot putt.

"I played very well up to the last four holes," said Archer, who saved par on 17 with a 12-foot putt. "I feel I am in great position, but I have to shoot two more good rounds to win, because those days three good rounds just won't do it any more."

Gilder also had a potentially spectacular round thwarted when he missed 3-foot birdie chances at the 16th and 18th holes. The 31-year-old Gilder did have one brilliant stretch, eagling the fourth with a 20-foot chip and following with birdies at 5 from 15 feet and 6 from 12 feet. But he had just one birdie, a 15-foot putt on 11, over the final 12 holes.

"I suppose I shouldn't complain with a 67, but I had a good chance to be at least two shots better and I didn't take advantage of it, that's all," said Gilder, who won the Byron Nelson and Westchester Classics this year. "But I'm a bit hot. I missed those short ones on 16 and 18; that's uncalled for."

McCullough, who holds the course record of 66 at Sawgrass, had four birdies on the front nine and three more on the back nine. McCullough, 37, has never won on the PGA tour since turning pro in 1972.

"This was an interesting round because at no time was I in danger of making a bogey," said McCullough, who hopes to go into advertising next year. "I just wasn't in any trouble at all."

The cut came at 143. Among the casualties were Greater Hartford Open winner Tim Norris, Hubert Green, Dave Stockton and Greg Powers, who had opened with a 69.

Johnson paces LPGA event

DALLAS (UPI) — Long-hitting Chris Johnson, who has never won anything bigger than an invitational collegiate tournament, took advantage of the relatively cool weather early Friday and fired a 6-under 66 that gave her the first round lead in the $155,000 Mary Kay Classic.

Johnson, in her third year on the LPGA tour, had finished no higher than fourth. Her round equaled the lowest in her pro career.

"I figure it is about time I won," said the graduate of the University of Arizona. "I've worked hard on my swing and now that my putting is coming around I think I have a good chance. Of course a lot of people out here have good chances."

Johnson took a one-shot lead over 1981 U.S. Open champ Pat Bradley and little-known Carole Charbonnier, who birdied the first four holes of the Bent Tree Country Club course despite a bad case of the flu and then just tried to keep up her strength so she could finish the round.

Among those at 4-under 68 were Beth Daniel, Cathy Morse, Hollis Stacy and Vivian Brownlee. Second leading money winner Sandra Haynie shot 69, but defending champion Jan Stephenson struggled all day and turned in a disappointing 76.

Stephenson won the tournament last year with an all-time LPGA 54-hole record score of 198, but a series of personal problems, including a court fight in which she is trying to annul her marriage, has put a dent in her golf game.
